NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Mrs. John C. Smith, of a Park street residence, with little hope of recovering the body of her missing son, who disappeared in the city after a fight in a saloon, yesterday told a reporter that she had been told by a man who had promised to help her find the body of her son that the boy was alive and that he would help her find him. Mrs. Smith said that she had been told by a man who had promised to help her find the body of her son that the boy was alive and that he would help her find him.

Mrs. Colme told me that there are several persons who still think that Mrs. Colme was a woman with a little bit of Irish in her. She said that she was a French girl who was married to a French man, and that she was a French girl who was married to a French man, and that she was a French girl who was married to a French man.

Miss Williams declines to give the name of her husband, but will give him any information other than that her husband-to-be was a well-to-do Frenchman in Phoebe Island until a little over a year ago when the man's fever got into his blood and he went to Mexico, thinking his life chances in property with the rest of the property. He was forced to tell it ordinary labor.

Two proud to return to his old home and admit his failure, he wrote a letter in which he explained his circumstances, telling his promised bride that he would leave Mexico and learn again and she would not hear from him until he had built up a fortune as he could not think of asking her to share his poverty.

Upon receiving the letter, the plucky young woman who is of a rich family started for Mexico with the determination of finding the man she loved. She reached Mexico only to find he had gone

Cupid at Throttle of the SWEETHEART'S SPECIAL

VINSTEAD Conn. Nov. 9.—Miss Anna Trivan, a telephone girl here with a voice like honey, was married to John T. Sweetney of Torrington.

Miss Julia McLaughlin, charming daughter of former Justice Cornelius McLaughlin of Torrington, was married to Thomas F. Quinn of Torrington.

It seems impossible that vivacious Cupid should inter at himself in dry sad figures, data and population or manufacturing vital statistics. But these facts remain.

Torrington, ten miles south of here, appears to rival the bustling of Torrington. On an average forty young men of Torrington marry as many lovely maidens of Torrington.

On the other hand the young men of Torrington do not seem to take kindly to the fair Torrington girls.

So Torrington is striving toward the goal of its ambition. The trolley company runs an extra car. "The Sweethearts Special" from Torrington to Torrington starts every Sunday night at 10:30 p. m.

The trolley service from Torrington to Torrington ends at 9:30 p. m. on Sundays and then nearly all the passengers are aged persons who have been visiting relatives.

LOVERS WAIT 21 YEARS FOR THEIR INVALID

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—When the Pat James P. Byrd, a doctor of St. Patrick's church at Richmond, N. Y., pronounced the words that made John Seaver and Margaret M. L. off husband and wife, it was a courtship that is said to have lasted one year and was left a happy couple.

Behind the story is a double example of self-sacrifice and parental love. Seaver is a 21-year-old invalid who has been in bed for 21 years. He is the son of a wealthy family and lives in the village of Torrington.

FATHERS TO DIE BEFORE THEY MARRY

His next-door neighbor was Miss Pfaff, a handsome woman still in the thirties. Two daughters have come to go to sea. Seaver and Miss Pfaff began a long courtship.

But Seaver and his father put the case of their invalid son before them. The father, a wealthy man, decided that the son should marry before he died. The father died before the wedding.

IS IT RIGHT FOR WOMEN TO SMOKE?

Cigarette smoking by the women of this country is becoming a custom and not so much a fad as it was for so long considered. Many women, about the idea that it is a custom but others are compromising and declare that the habit is a matter of taste and it lies with the individual to do as she pleases.

The habit is more in vogue in the East than on this coast and interviews with prominent club and society women as well as with actresses show that smoking is regarded more as a fad here. The habit is strongly condemned by some and stamped as peccadillo by others.

Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth is said to be one of America's leaders in society who has put the habit in vogue.

REPUBLICAN LEADERS AT BANQUET RENEW THEIR ALLEGIANCE TO GRAND OLD PARTY

DECLARES BANKERS DEFY LAW

Government May Prosecute.

EXCEED LOAN LIMIT

Five National Institutions With Millions Capital Said to be Involved.

(Special to the Tribune.) NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—That several bombshells in the way of arrests for violation of the national banking laws will be exploded among New York bankers within a week was the prediction made this afternoon by one who is close to the United States Bank Examiners.

Certain evidence has been obtained in several cases in which directors of big national banks borrowed greatly in excess of the legal limit of 10 per cent of the capital stock and unimpaired surplus. Other directors may come within the penalty of the law.

Preference Law Constitutional

(Special to the Tribune.) KANSAS CITY, Nov. 9.—The Kansas soldiers and sailors preference law is constitutional, according to an opinion handed down today by Justice Graves of the Kansas Supreme Court. The case arose out of the refusal of Mayor Cornell of the West Side to appoint old soldiers to fill positions of any importance in the West Side municipal government.

Joseph Taggart, County Attorney, filed proceedings in the Kansas Supreme Court to oust George Addison, sanitary sergeant; J. S. B. Eager, city physician; Larkin Norman, building inspector, and R. L. McAlpin, city engineer, on the grounds that veterans had applied for those positions, but were not appointed.

Do People Want Legislature?

Executive Declares 'Bankers Can Tell You More About Money Than I Can.'

(Special to the Tribune.) SACRAMENTO, Nov. 9.—Governor Gillett is waiting to learn what the sentiment of the State is in regard to the proposed special session of the Legislature before he makes up his mind as to whether or not he should issue a call. This was the reason the Governor gave tonight after his arrival in Sacramento for his refusal to commit himself on the question as to whether or not it would be desirable to call the Legislature together at this time.

IN SAN FRANCISCO. "The sentiment of the people of San Francisco, so far as I had opportunity to learn it," the Governor said, "seems to be in favor of the proposed special session. The local estate men and bankers and the supervisors as well as the press of San Francisco seem to be practically unanimous in their demand for a special session of the Legislature to extend the

Wants Delegation For Roosevelt

(Special to the Tribune.) WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Governor Frantz of Oklahoma told the President today that he would return to his home immediately. The Republican leaders of Oklahoma, whose recommendations to the President were followed in nearly every instance in recent appointments, do not think that the office-seekers who were disappointed will be able to do much toward defeating the President for a delegation to the national convention.

"You know how it is with a fellow that has a sore toe," said the Governor. "Nobody has any sympathy with him."

PERKINS SAYS PRESIDENT WON'T TAKE THIRD TERM

HARMONY REIGNS AT FEAST

Congressman Knowland, in Ringing Speech, Asks for Another Roosevelt to Occupy White House.

The complimentary reception and banquet tendered to the Alameda County Republican Central Committee by the Republican candidates of 1906 at the Key Route Inn last night was one of the most important political and social events of the year. As a Republican love feast the meeting has not been excelled in many a day and compliments to national, State, county and city officials of the grand old party were freely passed by the various speakers.

"Boost the grand old party" was the general note of the gathering in which "boosts" were generously given. Roosevelt came in for his share, nor were Alameda county, this city and water front improvements neglected.

Senator Perkins in a splendid address spoke jestingly of the numerous candidates the Republicans had for the White House, then added, seriously, "We have a President who has the courage to say he will not be a candidate for a third term, and those of us who know him personally believe he means what he says."

Congressman Knowland spoke to "Our President," and he expressed his regret that Roosevelt has decided against accepting another nomination. He declared Roosevelt was not to blame for the financial hurry and that in his enforcing of laws he had a great majority of the people back of him.

Both Senator Perkins and Congressman Knowland promised to do their utmost to aid in local harbor improvements.

Around the walls and through the center of the commodious billiard room, for the occasion transformed into a banquet hall, were ranged the dining tables in the shape of a great W. Over the fireplace in the center of the west wall of the hall the Stars and Stripes were draped over a painting of the San Francisco bay.

Vari-colored candles and numerous potted plants completed the decorations.

Shortly after 7 o'clock the guests assembled were ushered into the banquet hall.

JUDGE MELVIN PRESIDES. Judge Henry A. Melvin was toastmaster of the evening. In introducing Senator George C. Perkins, the first speaker, Judge Melvin said: "I have expected to be very happy tonight, but unfortunately there was the wrong result in the football game today, and although the victory only cost 23, it amounted to 23 for me."

"I know of no one better fitted to speak to the tonight's banquet than Senator Perkins, who has been called upon to respond to the toast tonight. He has served our own United States ably and well in many different ways and positions. I have the honor to introduce Senator Perkins."

SENATOR PERKINS SAID: "We have met this evening to renew the pledge made by the Republican nominees at the last general election."

"I pledge that we would, if elected, perform the duties of our respective offices with honesty and to the best of our ability. And that we would, in the event of our recognition and appointment to the County Central Committee, in recognition and appreciation of their unselfish political work in our behalf."

"This evening seems a most opportune time for these festivities, as the President of the United States and the Governor of California have just issued their annual Thanksgiving proclamations. We have thanked much to be thankful for. First, that we are citizens of 'Our Own United States'; the sentiment proposed by the Father of Our Country."

Entire Coastwise Trade Passes Into Hands of Rivals.

(SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE.) NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The control of the entire Atlantic coastwise shipping trade is believed to have passed from Charles W. Morse into the hands of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company, through the agency of J. P. Morgan. The official announcement of the change, it is said, on good authority, will be made by the directors of the Consolidated Steamship Company on Monday.

Penitent Carrying Taper and Barefoot Held Up by Police.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Barefooted, carrying a lighted taper, and accompanied by several hundred friends, Raffaele Cascone, released from the Tombs today, after having been twice tried and once convicted of murder, started to walk to the Church of Mount Carmel, at One Hundred and Thirtieth street and Second avenue, to make an offering at the shrine.

Cascone has been a prison friend of Harry K. Thaw. While in the death house at Sing Sing, where he had spent seventeen months and from which he had been released, he had been told that he had made a vow that if he were freed he would make a barefoot pilgrimage to the Church of Mount Carmel. He was released from the Tombs at noon, and as he emerged into the open air, a crowd surged about him, cheering.

STOPS TO PRAY. He waved them back and sank on the steps, raising his hands in prayer. Several of his relatives knelt with him.

Finally, Cascone arose, took off his shoes and stockings and threw them into the street. Then he discarded his coat and hat. One of his friends handed him

Ideal Weather and Big Crowd at Williams Park---7000 Hero Worshippers Watch Stanford's Victory.

BY T. P. MAGILLIGAN.

Before a crowd that almost pushed the final cipher into the round number of ten thousand, the winter meeting of the California Jockey Club was ushered into being at Williams Park yesterday afternoon.

The opening handicap was the magnet that attracted the immense concourse of people out to the track. Ideal weather, a fine card and the promise of lively speculation were the trio of concomitant causes that led those chance mad ten thousand Williams parkward.

Hibernating through a long and dull vacuum and a gentle denial of their favorite sport at first hand, race goers of every degree welcomed the return of their favorite sport and gathered early at the track to snare once more the bracing atmosphere of life, as it is seen on the race course.

The very capacity of Williams Park was taxed by the immense crowd that thronged the enclosure and before the bugle call sounded for the first race, every available spot was occupied.

The crowd began to arrive early and when the gates were thrown open well dressed men and well groomed women, forgetting for the nonce

BY EDDIE SMITH.

Before a crowd of 7,000 of the most enthusiastic people that ever gathered to witness the sports of the present day the swift-footed, well trained and game Rugby players of the Stanford University defeated their fellow collegians of California University in the annual football game with the one-sided score of 21 to 11.

Long before the time for the game to be called the spectators began to gather, the day being a perfect one, most of the ladies in the stands were dressed in their summer costumes and gaily decorated with their favorite colors.

The spectacle was indeed an inspiring one and with the rosters shouting their yells and singing their songs the sight thrilled one, and before the teams entered the field most every spectator was keyed up to a pitch of enthusiasm such as only a college football game could cause.

Stanford was the first to enter and the first man had hardly entered the field when the inspired Stanford admirers arose from their seats and with one mighty voice shouted a welcome and encouragement. The team ran up and down the field, passing the ball to one another and it was immediately noticeable to the trained eye that they were in the very perfection of physical con-

Anna Gould Gives Prince His Conge

YIELDS TO FAMILY ADVICE AFTER QUARREL WITH HIM

(SPECIAL CABLE TO TRIBUNE) PARIS, Nov. 9.—Madame Anna Gould is very far from being married to Prince de Sagan. Unable to withstand the pressure and opposition of her family and friends to her marriage with the handsomest spendthrift of Europe, she has given the Prince his conge. It is reported that Madame Anna Gould bade farewell to the Prince after a serious quarrel at the Chateau de Marais, where she had been nursing him through an attack of bronchitis caught while shooting blinds over Madame Gould's expansive ideas and the Prince's orders to leave so imperative that he was compelled to go to the station in a plain hired hack.

There are stories at Marais to the effect that Madame Anna's quarrel with the Prince was so tempestuous that she ordered him never to cross her threshold again.

NATIVES HAUL TAFT CARRIAGE

Filipinos Unhitch Horses and With Cheers Pull Vehicle to Docks.

(Special to the Tribune.)
MANILA, Nov. 9.—A remarkable demonstration was made by the Filipinos when Secretary Taft started for Vladivostok today. The horses were withdrawn from the carriage which contained Mr. and Mrs. Taft by the Manila schoolboys, and it was pulled from the docks to the dock through cheering crowds.
The Secretary of War started from the residence of Governor Smith at 9 a. m., reviewed a long military, civic and school parade at 9 o'clock, making a short address of thanks for his reception, and expressing his confidence in the future of the islands.
The Taft party sailed about noon for Vladivostok where they expect to arrive on November 13. All the party are in the best of health.
In an interview today Secretary Taft said:
The condition of affairs in the Philippines is most satisfactory and the progress made is remarkable. My confidence in the legislative assembly has been justified by its actions. So far it has taken a conservative form, and I have no doubt will continue its useful, patriotic and diligent course.

INDIANS WALK OVER HARVARD

Crimson Outplayed at Every Stage of Game by Fast Carlisle Team.

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—Harvard was beaten to a frazzle this afternoon by the Carlisle Indians, the final score being 23 to 15. A crowd of 30,000 persons witnessed an exceptionally exciting game. It was the open style of play of the Indians which was accountable for Harvard's downfall, and incidentally thrilled the humanity-filled stadium. The significance of the Indians' success is very evident, as it was the Indian sign with a vengeance. Had the defeat come to Harvard as a surprise there might have been some reason to berate the Crimson, but being outplayed by a team which was acknowledged a dangerous foe and which had already beaten one of the big college teams, the result was not entirely unlooked for.

The only feature to mar the grand game was the inexcusable action of Waldo Pierce in jumping on an Indian who was tackling Starr and trying to down him. Umpire Edwards did not lose any time in sending him out of the game, and Harvard paid the penalty by losing half the distance to her goal line.

The one sensation of the afternoon was the magnificent run of Mount Pleasant, the Indian sprinter, who tore down the field through the entire Harvard eleven for seventy-five yards after catching a punt.

YALE, 22; BROWN, 0.
NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 9.—Yale defeated Brown University, 22 to 0, on the gridiron today and all the Eli scoring was due to playing of an exceptionally brilliant sort.

In the first half Yale crossed the Brown line once, when, with ten minutes to play, McDonald of Brown punted out of bounds at the Yale 30-yard line. Brides was then shoved through tackle in the opening and he dashed forty yards before he was brought down. He cleverly passed the ball to Congdon, when he was tackled, and the latter kept on till he was downed on the Brown 25-yard line.

PRINCETON, 14; AMHERST, 0.
PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 9.—The Princeton Tigers defeated the strong Amherst eleven here today by a score of 14 to 0.

CORNELL, 14; ARMY, 10.
WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 9.—Cornell's big fast eleven downed the Army here this afternoon in one of the most brilliant contests ever seen on the big parade ground. The score was 14 to 10.

From start to finish the result was always in doubt and more excitement has never been seen on any gridiron.

IOWA, 25; ILLINOIS, 12.
IOWA CITY, Ia., Nov. 9.—Iowa University defeated Illinois in an extraordinary game this afternoon and the city and university are crazy tonight. Score: Iowa, 25; Illinois, 12.

WISCONSIN, 11; INDIANA, 8.
MADISON, Wis., Nov. 9.—Indiana gave Wisconsin a terrible jolt this afternoon at Camp Randall, holding the Badgers close and getting two field goals. Score: Wisconsin, 11; Indiana, 8.

Wisconsin had a big margin on exchange of punts, the Badger ends showing wonderful improvement over the Illinois and Iowa games.

MRS. TALLY, JR. ASKS DIVORCE

Charges Husband With Inflicting Wound Which Takes Four Stitches.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—May E. Tally, wife of Harry T. Tally Jr., has sued for divorce on the ground of cruelty. Although married but a little over five years, Mrs. Tally says her husband has treated her with such extreme cruelty that she can no longer live with him.

On one occasion she says he struck her on the forehead with a stein, inflicting a wound in which a surgeon took four stitches.

Lally is the son of Harry T. Lally Sr. of the plumbing supply company of that name. He was married to the plaintiff July 19, 1902. There are two children, 2 and 4 years old. The wife asks their custody and $40 a month alimony.

Mrs. Tally says her husband commenced to abuse her two weeks after their marriage. The plaintiff says her husband promised to do better, but within two months again began his cruel treatment.

On occasions, the wife says she has been compelled to telephone to her husband's mother to come and protect her.

Lally is employed at his father's place of business.

SPURNED LOVER MAKES ATTACK ON WAITRESS

SEATTLE, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Hattie Scholl, a waitress, is believed to be dying in the Wayside Emergency Hospital, the result of blows from an iron bolt twenty inches long, in the hands of Fred J. Hamon. The woman spurned his attention and threatened to have Hamon arrested if he did not cease bothering her, whereupon he flew into a rage, and with the threat that he would kill her, felled her to the floor.

She sustained a fractured skull, a broken arm and internal injuries. Hamon is held on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder. He is 23 years old and a waiter by occupation. The tragedy was enacted in the Portland Lodging House.

IMPRISONED ON GIRLS' STORIES

Wealthy New York Merchant Aged Church Member Arrested on Serious Charge.

NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 9.—On the strength of stories told to the grand jury by young girls of tender years, Walter G. Bross, a wealthy and prominent merchant, was put behind the bars today.

The fact that Bross had always stood high in the community, was a church member, has an estimable wife and family, and is himself a grandfather, one of his daughters being the wife of a prominent jeweler, added to the sensation. He lives in a handsome home at No. 54 Broad street, and is head of the firm of Bross, Fish & Company, wholesale commission merchants in New York in the market district.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY.

When Bross was arraigned today before Acting Judge Vull in the First Criminal Court, his counsel, who sat beside him, pleaded not guilty for him and waived examination. Bail was fixed at $3000 and furnished. There are five complainants named in the charge against Bross. They are Winnie Fay, 13 years old, Florence Parker, 15, Belle Longhena, 13, Katie Kelly, 14, and Sarah Quinliss, 14.

Bross was not the only one arrested as the result of the stories told by the girls. There were nine others, all but two of whom were married men. Of the nine, two, like Bross, are prominent business men. They are Harry Eanwald, of Chicago, a commission merchant in New York, and Leo Purpora, a confectioner of New York.

ITALIAN GOVERNMENT NAMES FOOD PRICES

ROME, Nov. 9.—The present high prices of provisions have induced the Roman municipal authorities to revive the ancient "cannone" system, or official regulation of the food markets.

Following the example of Pope Leo XII, who defeated the food trusts eighty years ago, the municipality has appointed a commission of twenty-two, including the editors of the ten Roman newspapers, to fix a maximum price for all articles of food.

The commission, after ascertaining the wholesale price of food at the centers of production, will, once a fortnight, decide the maximum price which the retailers may charge.

The Intercollegiate Football Contest.

The Rugby football contest fought out yesterday afternoon on the Stanford gridiron attracted one of the old-time crowds which formerly witnessed the annual struggle between the two universities for supremacy when the less spectacular game of so-called inter-collegiate football was in vogue, with its mass plays, which covered the brutalities that were committed and obscured them from the vision of the spectators until the limp form of some member of one or other of the teams was dragged out from the heap and hurried off to the hospital for repairs. The multitude doubtless enjoyed the open play better than any inter-collegiate game they had ever witnessed before in this State. They saw more in return for their money than they would have done in any inter-collegiate football game which Rugby has displaced.

For local reasons THE TRIBUNE would naturally have preferred to see the "Blue and Gold" victorious. As it was the "Cardinal," undoubtedly the best team, carried off the honors and is fairly entitled to the credit of its achievement.

The result has proved one thing which should not be overlooked, and will not by the intelligent students of football, that the more open the play the less handling there is to the ball and the more use there is of the feet, the less the weight of the players in the game counts in the final results and the more beneficial football as an outdoor sport becomes to the student bodies of the universities at large. That is the main reason why association football is taking precedence over Rugby in public favor in the United Kingdom, the home of both, and why the champion New Zealand Rugby team which beat the world declared, as they passed through this city on their way home two years ago, after carrying off the honors against every team that confronted them in the British Isles, except the solitary instance of the Welsh team, that Rugby would be displaced by association football in the Antipodes. The latter game is strictly open and spectacular, and novices can easily appreciate every move made by the players, for the ball is always in sight and never handled, the conduct of every player openly in evidence, and the action of the play rapid. In the United Kingdom Rugby, which was played at Stanford yesterday, has been relegated to a second place as an outdoor sport. Where a crowd of 5000 spectators is in attendance at a Rugby match, from 30,000 to 100,000 spectators will be witnessing an association football match in the same neighborhood. Rugby will serve the purpose here of an intermediary to introduce later on the more active and spectacular game of association football in inter-collegiate contests, not only on its special merits, but because it is a sport in which the entire student body of a university can participate.

What Congress Owes the West.

In the light of recent events in New York, the question is pertinent: Could Wall Street survive if there were no West? It was pretty conclusively proved that Wall Street, with all its vauntings as the great financial center of the continent, has been for an indefinite number of years dependent for its existence on the physical resources and the surplus earnings of the Western States and Territories and that it is in reality nothing more or less than a hotbed of mad speculation and the nest of a group of reckless professional gamblers who are using the wealth of the West as stakes. From all accounts Wall Street is today the debtor to every State and Territory in the West. It is, moreover, the credit of the West, sustained by the vast crops of the products of the soil and the enormous mineral output of its gold, silver, copper and lead mines, not yet marketed, that are bolstering Wall Street and saving it from positive bankruptcy, just as the output of gold from the auriferous placer deposits of California saved the credit of the Federal government and thus preserved the national existence in the days of the Civil War. There is little doubt that if the West had peremptorily called upon Wall Street to return its borrowings in the recent financial crisis brought about by the desperate operations of its reckless speculators it would have produced a crash in which the historic "Black Friday" would have cut but a sorry figure in comparison.

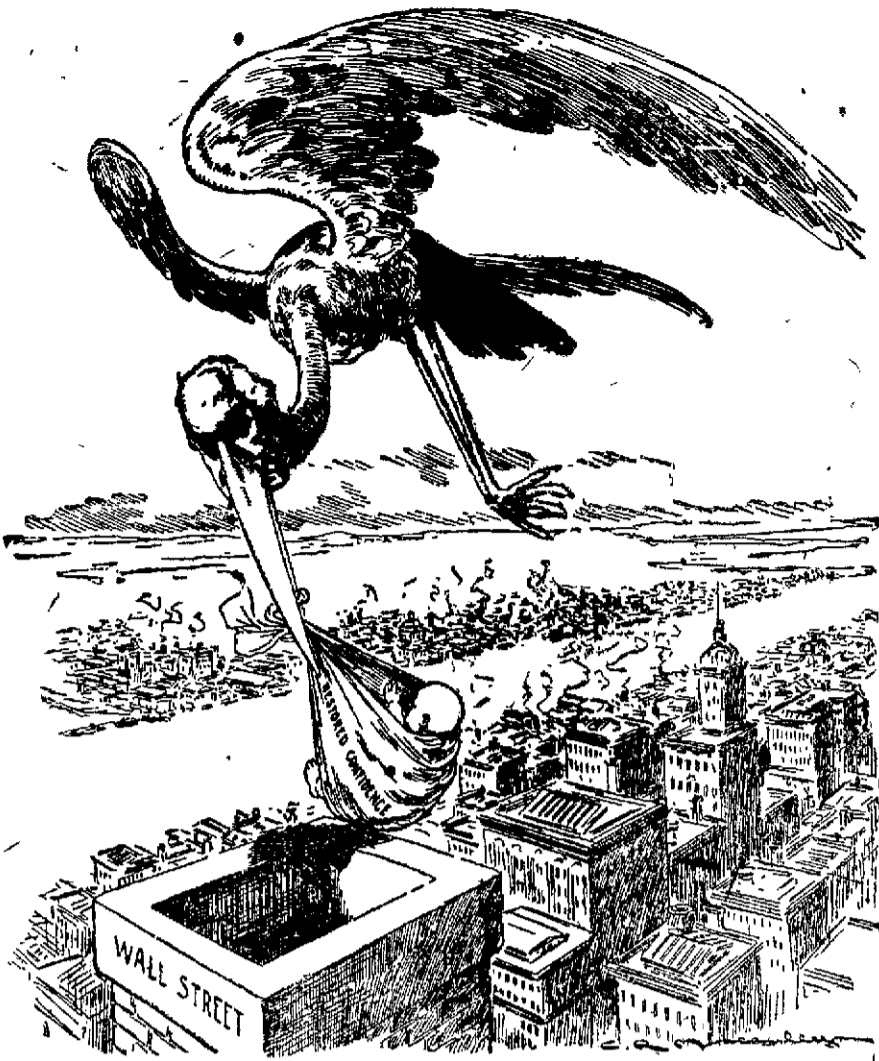

The lesson of the late flurry should not be lost on Congress, which will shortly meet in regular session. That body has usually given in the past comparatively little attention to the wants of the West. This section of the country has been treated so cavalierly that it has received scant consideration in matters affecting its welfare and on which its prosperity largely depends. While appropriations for the development of all kinds of public works, in which the Federal government is directly concerned, have been handed out lavishly for the benefit of the Eastern States and the Atlantic seaboard, the meager appropriations which Congress has apportioned to the Western States and Territories and for the benefit of the Western seaboard in times past have been doled out with apparent unwillingness, Western Congressmen and Senators have always been compelled to make the hardest kind of a fight for them.

There ought to be a change. In the last half dozen years the importance of the West to the life and prosperity of the nation at large has been steadily growing more conspicuous. It is clearly in evidence that the Pacific Coast is to play a great part in the future commerce of the country and that Congress will have to count on this fact in its future deliberations and its distribution of the public money for harbor and river improvements and other public works which are necessary to meet the imperative needs of commerce. And the object lesson which has been so prominently displayed before the world at large that the West is one of the nation's chief and most reliable sources of wealth should not be disregarded or lightly treated by Congress henceforth in the consideration of legislation affecting the national welfare and the appropriation of public money for the development of Western resources and commerce. Congress has hereafter a duty to perform to the West which it has in the past sadly neglected.

The color adopted by some mischievous spirits in painting the big Charter hill "C" on the State University grounds some time during Thursday night suggests very strongly that the offenders are rival wearers of the cardinal and not Berkeley school boys. The vivid red paint used to obliterate the original golden color converted the University letter into a Stanford landmark.

The Cartwright law needs to be invoked evidently to teach a lesson to the butchers' trust which is said to have been organized at Sacramento under the delusive name of the Sacramento Butchers' Protective Association which refuses to sell meat to dealers who refuse to join the combine. The mere threat to invoke the law in a recent Oakland case of like character scared a meat trust into submission.

THE STORK

Taft Treading Delicate Ground.

It is quite evident that the reports which have been circulated that Taft will have audiences with some of the European potentates, and not with all of them, is embarrassing the Secretary of War in the course of his tour around the world, and also causing anxiety in Washington. One of the reports is to the effect that Taft has been invited to St. Petersburg to an audience with the Czar and Kaiser William. Another announces that the latter and Taft are to meet at Osborne house, the late Queen Victoria's residence on the Isle of Wight, which King Edward presented to the nation on his accession to the throne.

Cognizance of the latter report has been taken by both the British and French ambassadors at Washington, who are said to have made inquiries concerning its authenticity at the State Department accompanied with representations that if the Secretary of War does meet the Emperor of Germany, even though it be on neutral soil, or visits the Czar at St. Petersburg, and refrains from seeking an audience with the British King and the President of the French republic, the omission will be construed in effect as a personal slight to each one.

The jealousies of the European powers of one another are so strong that Taft will be treading on delicate ground if he interviews the rulers of some of them and neglects others. But he is such a tactful man that he may be safely trusted not to do anything in the course of his tour which will embarrass the government or lead to any unpleasant diplomatic entanglements. However, whether the reports of proposed audiences with the Czar and the Kaiser are true or canards, the concern which they have excited in diplomatic circles shows plainly the sensitiveness of the situation.

Betting at College Contests.

It is possible that no kind of healthful sport can be fostered into which the gambling element will not enter in some form or other. The spirit of chance has such a strong hold on most people that if they cannot get an opportunity to risk money on one thing they will on another. It is no degradation to honest healthful sport when it is used as a means through which the uncontrollable disposition to bet on the chance result shall obtain a vent. According to the Portland Telegram it has taken possession of the northern universities. In all probability our own higher educational institutions are not free from it. It would be surprising if they were. It would be regarded doubtless as a disparagement to intimate that Californians are slower than their neighbors. In all probability a good wad of money, notwithstanding the financial stringency of the times, exchanged hands as one of the results of the struggle for supremacy on the Stanford football field between the two university teams yesterday afternoon. Perhaps that fact added to the enthusiasm of the occasion.

The Telegram records as a fact that a football match between the students of the Washington University and a team of sailors from the battleship Nebraska, played at Seattle a week ago, which resulted in a victory for the Jack tars, "soured" the university student body because it had pooled and wagered and lost $1000. If so, the incident did not dim the luster of the contest.

The Telegram notes, however, that the Washington University students are not the only sinners in the Northwest. Two years ago, many thousands of dollars changed hands over the results in the football match played between the teams of the Agricultural State College and the Oregon State University at Eugene, and it is conservatively estimated, by those who profess to know, that Corvallis dropped between $7000 and $10,000 additional on the event.

We agree with the Telegram that "such episodes detract from the character and dignity of any institution of learning." It must be confessed that gambling on the results of such contests is a blemish, but it is unavoidable, for the disposition to wager is too deep rooted in human nature everywhere to be eradicated, and no class is wholly free from it. But because men and women will bet on the results in a game of skill and endurance which is fostered because it is a healthful sport, whose purpose is to develop the college spirit and whose tendency is to improve the physical condition of the students of our higher educational institutions as a body, is an insufficient reason why the sport itself should be discouraged or condemned. If it were, every kind of healthful outdoor and indoor sport would have to be abolished and that would be manifestly foolish. Betting at these contests is one of the minor evils that must be tolerated for the greater benefit derived from them.

Miss Seligman Confesses Theatrical Tour Is a Really True Honeymoon

By BETTY MARTIN.

It is my conviction that if Miss Minnie Seligman, now starring at the Orpheum in "A Dakota Widow," had not been an actress she would have met with unlimited success in the field of business. This conclusion was an instantaneous one, formed upon her first question to me.

It was a few minutes after the conclusion of her playlet that I knocked upon Miss Seligman's dressing-room door, and answering her "come in," entered, to discover the actress seated before the mirror, diligently erasing traces of make-up. She was attired in a negligee costume of lace and silk, artistic and dainty enough to cause envious pangs in the breast of the beholder.

Miss Seligman extended one plump hand in greeting, smiled, and resumed her occupation of erasing rouge and powder.

"Well," Miss Betty, propounded she, from the depths of her employment, "what do you want me to talk about?"

"About yourself," replied I promptly. There wasn't an instant's hesitation before the answer came and to my notion, it was a most satisfactory one.

UNKNOWN HISTORY.

"When I was in Cincinnati," said the actress, "a newspaper man came to me and asked me quite a number of questions about myself, how I came to go on the stage, why I did so, why I abandoned the legitimate for the field of vaudeville, and several other questions. For some reason I never gave him the answers, and so the matter has never been printed. Now," continued Miss Seligman, "how would it be if I were to write this out for you myself?"

The idea, to me, was novel, but it was also delightful, and I hastened to say so. But I lingered long enough to have a little chat about matters here and there. And I discovered among other things, that Miss Seligman is, in reality, on her bridal tour, having been married only last spring, to her leading man, Mr. William Bramwell.

"And we're keeping house," explained Mrs. Bramwell.

"Where, in New York?" queried I, innocently, at which she gave an indulgent laugh before replying "No, here in Oakland. We've the dearest little apartments over on San Pablo. It was funny, the way we came to get them. Mr. Bramwell and I were passing along on the sidewalk when we saw the sign on the building. On the impulse of the moment we went in to look at them, with the result that we took them promptly. And," continued she gleefully, "we cooked several meals already."

"You have your maid with you, of course?"

"No maid. Just ourselves, and its such fun."

CLERGYMAN'S SON.

By the way, to reveal an open secret, William Bramwell is the possessor of a third name that of Downing. He is the son of the Reverend Moses Downing, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Los Angeles, and he descends from a line of Methodist ancestry. His father bestowed the name Bramwell upon his son in admiring tribute to that great divine—Bramwell. And that same father lives in the sincere hope and conviction that one day his son William, the Mr. Dacre of "A Dakota Widow" will eventually desert the stage and come back again to his own.

Well, stranger things have happened, and this is not at all improbable since Mrs. Bramwell declares herself to be in love with California.

"We expect to remain a few years longer on the vaudeville stage," explained she, "then, it is not unlikely that we'll make our home in California."

Miss Seligman, as she is better known, has one pet from whom she is never separated—a Blenheim spaniel, whose mother she once owned. The little creature was born on the stage.

"I went on in an act," said Miss Seligman, "and when I came back, there she was. This dog," volunteered his mistress, "goes everywhere with me. When I am on the stage she goes back of the curtain and keeps her little nose under it until I come off. Then she follows me to my dressing-room. It was so cruel to leave her, she is so faithful."

DEBUT ON STAGE.

Ensued a short talk regarding vaudeville and one or two other questions, which Miss Seligman discusses at length in the written document which she so kindly handed me later on, reading in effect as follows:

"How did I happen to go on the stage?" reiterated Miss Seligman; a question which is explained at length.

The first play I ever witnessed was when I was six years of age. It was Miss Maggie Mitchell in "Jane Eyre." I was so excited that my aunt, who was with me at the time, has since told me that had she not grabbed my skirts I would have fallen over the balcony (where we were sitting) into the parquett. She often tells people to this day, how after seeing the play, I would for weeks afterward try to imitate "Jane Eyre" and Sprat, until they really had to punish me to keep me quiet. When I was eleven years of age my teachers always gave me the leading part in our school entertainments and finally when I reached the age of 12 my parents took me to a school of "Oratory and Acting" in New York City, but I remember my father telling Prof. Frohisher that under no circumstances was I to be given any play books or taught acting—that I was merely brought there to be taught how to read poetry, to add to the other accomplishments I was taught as a girl, such as music, singing, dancing, etc. After remaining a pupil of Prof. Frohisher for one year he called at our home to see my parents on a private matter. I hid under the piano so that I might hear what was said, and I felt sure it would be something about me, and I heard the Professor say, "Mr. Seligman, I have kept my word with you, your daughter Minnie has not seen a play book nor has the stage or anything pertaining to the art of acting been ever suggested to her, but she shows such talent that in justice to her, I feel that that talent should be encouraged instead of stifled."

HAD NATURAL TALENT.

My parents thanked him for his interest, etc. and they parted with the promise to give the matter their consideration. I naturally crawled out of my hiding place when they were alone after hearing my mother say she "would rather see a daughter of hers dead than on the stage," and the result was I said I would study to be an actress and as they could not persuade me from that idea I was taken away from the College of Oratory and all further connection with the stage ceased. My teacher said he would teach me without pay, but that he was too conscientious to do so behind their backs.

I was then about 13 years of age. I continued my school studies, but the great desire to be an actress never left me. I planned and schemed how to educate myself to fit me for the stage, to get money enough to pay my tuition. After school hours I would teach little girls elocution and with the money thus earned pay for my own education. This was done unbeknown to my parents, who were wealthy people. Finally when I reached 16 years of age, I said that I was going on the stage and in order to prevent this I was married at the age of 17. This marriage was most unhappy and was the means my parents took of preventing my entering upon a stage career, they opened the way to it, for I was compelled to earn my living or return home, and I became a member of the leading stock company of New York City.

NOTED PLAYERS.

In the company at that time were Annie Russell, Marie Burrows, Agnes Booth, Alexander Sanyini, Charles Coghlan, Maurice Barrymore and many other leading artists of our present day. My next engagement was with the McVicker Stock Company of Chicago. In that company were Henry Lee, Edward J. Henley, Wilton Lackaye, George Drew Barrymore, etc.

I was then only 17 years of age and I was engaged to be the understudy at twenty dollars per week. An accident to Mrs. Henry Miller, the leading woman, gave me the opportunity to play "Vela" in "Mothers." I made the first success of my career and became the leading lady of that organization. I next created about eight characters in New York productions and when I was starred by Mr. Frank Sawyer in "My Official Wife," in which capacity I made my first visit to San Francisco. Since then I have played many parts.

"I am now in vaudeville because it is the only avenue of our profession where husband and wife can play together. And I hope Mr. Bramwell and I will meet with our present success for the next few years when we shall retire; and we hope to settle in Pasadena, the most beautiful spot, I think, in America."

ANENT YOUNG GIRLS.

Answering the question as to whether she would advise young girls to go upon the stage, Miss Seligman continues:

"If a young girl is really stage-struck, as I was, I do not believe any power on earth can dissuade her from her desire, but speaking from my own point of view, I frankly say that the greatest happiness a woman can have is a happy fireside, crowned in her middle age with good children—but that unfortunately this knowledge comes to us too late. My friends, my parents, all who were my well-wishers talked to me in this strain when I was seventeen but I could not understand or appreciate what they said. "Yes, I have had success, fame and wealth; all the good fortune that a successful actress enjoys—but today I would rather be a happy wife and a good mother than the most successful actress of our stage."

So concludes the story written by Miss Seligman, after all these years upon the stage, she has come to the conclusion that motherhood is a woman's crown.

"For us all some sweet hope lies deeply buried from human eyes,"

ELECTRIC FLAME HAS FAITH IN CITY'S GROWTH

Engineer at Santa Rosa Loses Sight Temporarily and Is Badly Burned.

(Special to the Tribune.)

SANTA ROSA, Nov. 9.—For several minutes last night A. H. Kennedy, an electrical engineer at the Santa Rosa pumping station, was blind and suffered the agony of believing that his sight had gone forever. The affliction followed a serious accident (he fell) while in the pumping pit, thirty feet from the surface.

Kennedy was throwing back a switch to shut down the motor when an electrical spark struck him on the face and instantly there was a report and a shower of flame encircled the startled engineer. The flame blinded him temporarily.

Kennedy's right arm was badly burned. The flesh of his hand was literally cooked and his eyebrows were burned off.

Charles A. Garter, Former U. S. Attorney, Makes Prophecy Regarding Oakland.

Charles A. Garter, formerly United States Attorney of the northern district of California, is registered at the Arlington Hotel, and intends to remain in Oakland several weeks.

Judge Garter is practicing law in Red Bluff, where he has a large clientele. He has retired from politics but still enjoys the distinction of being classed with the great politicians of the State.

He has been practicing law since 1883 and was United States District Attorney during Harrison's administration and remained in office for two years during Cleveland's regime.

Judge Garter is proud to say that he belongs to the alumni of the University of California, having taken his degree of master of arts in 1888, when the great educational institution was called the College of California.

Speaking of the progress of Oakland Judge Garter in an interview with a TRIBUNE reporter said:

"Oakland is too far advanced to stand back and see San Francisco get all the State appropriations for a harbor."

"I am in favor of competitive railroads coming into this city. I also believe in planning parks and boulevards. Push and hustle on the part of the citizens will develop this city into a greater Oakland."

"I may prophesy that Oakland will some day be a consolidated city and join San Francisco as Brooklyn did to New York."

IRON AND BRASS BEDS AT A SACRIFICE

About two weeks ago a prominent manufacturer of brass and iron beds came to us and made us a very remarkable proposition.

He offered us a car of beds at a price we never dreamed of getting—the stipulation being that we should take the entire car as it stood at a spot cash price.

We investigated the matter carefully and found the lot to be a splendidly selected and well assorted line, in perfect condition.

Many of the beds were really works of art, all of the castings were clean cut and the beds represented in actual weight of brass and in the quality of materials and workmanship the very best values obtainable—the enamel was of the very highest quality and the workmanship and general designs the very best.

We accepted the proposition because—

We knew we could create a sale of beds, by securing this lot, that would appeal to hundreds of people—

BECAUSE we knew that whoever bought one of these beds at this sale would remain a friend of the house for all time thereafter.

BECAUSE we knew the sale would be an advertisement for us that would be worth hundreds of dollars—

BECAUSE we knew the public appreciated quality and would respond by hundreds and thus clear out the carload in a short time.

WE MUST sell these beds, of course, this week for space is at a premium in this store and you know the space a bed takes up.

THE PRICES we have made may appear to you as sensational, it may seem impossible for us to sell brass and iron beds, like these pictures, for such prices but remember our advertising reputation is at stake in this matter, consider the circumstances surrounding the purchase, consider the evident necessity of a quick disposition of such a great quantity of one kind of goods and you will appreciate the advisability of a prompt investigation of the matter—

FIND MONEY IN CHICKEN COOP

Part of Dead Miner's Wealth Discovered in His Back Yard.

(Special to the Tribune.)
SACRAMENTO, Nov. 9.—After waiting several months for $7000 that Fat McIntyre, a miner of Folsom bequeathed on his death bed to Supervisor James Donnelly, the appraisers of the dead miner's estate today found $350 tucked away in a can in the corner of a chicken coop, back of McIntyre's cabin. It is believed that this find is only a part of the savings "cached" by the old miner and the hunt will be continued.
McIntyre was believed to be poor and had no friend but Donnelly, who tended him when he fell sick. On his death bed McIntyre told Donnelly of the small fortune he had accumulated and bequeathed to him the entire amount. He said that he had "cached" the money under the floor of his cabin, but died without giving further particulars as to how it was to be found.

BISHOP SAYS MISSIONS BETTER THAN MARKETS

(Special to the Tribune.)
SEATTLE, Nov. 9.—"It is a good thing to open the markets of the world to American commerce if it can be legitimately done, but an infinitely nobler mission is to carry hope to the broken hearted and benighted heathen," exclaimed Bishop William F. McDowell of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which began its annual meeting here today.
"Commerce," he continued, "carries the things that give material comfort to the man, but the missionary carries the balm that heals the broken hearted, downtrodden and oppressed of humanity."
Today's session of the board was largely of a business nature and discussion of a plan for wiping out the indebtedness of $100,000. Tomorrow the visiting bishops will occupy the various pulpits of Seattle.

Real Estate Firm branches Out

The Rudell Real Estate Co. for years conducted by W. E. Rudell, has inaugurated a new department for business chances, in addition to their real estate and fire insurance. Mr. Lynch taking charge of the new feature, and devoting his exclusive time to it. There has long been a demand in Fruitvale for such a line, and it was with his customary enterprise that Mr. Rudell instituted the additional department, and put in a man both energetic and competent to handle it. Mr. Rudell has made a great success in

WOMAN PASSENGER IN BALLOON.

(Special to the Tribune.)
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 9.—Carrying a woman among its passengers, the big German balloon Pommern, which won the recent international balloon race, made an ascension today from Point Breeze in the southern section of the city. The woman is the wife of Dr. Julian P. Thomas of New York, who recently purchased the balloon from its German owner, and who was also a passenger.

New Realty Company Formed

THE TRIBUNE takes great pleasure in announcing to its readers the formation of a new realty company. The members of which have several projects in hand, which completed, will add very materially to the general welfare of Oakland.
The firm is known as Horth & Crabbe, 406 Twelfth street, of which Frank T. Horth and Edward C. S. Crabbe are the members. Mr. Horth is a native of New York State and for the past year has been associated with THE TRIBUNE as an advertising man.

Mr. Crabbe, although born in Nevada, has spent 23 years in Honolulu, where he was an active assistant to his father who was president of the Territorial Senate for six years.
In about three weeks this firm will open a very fine tract of land on Pothill Boulevard, known as Eden Terrace, to the homeseeking public who are looking for high class property at a minimum price. In this connection we may say that there are so many improvements which will shortly be made that anyone looking for a fine investment will do well to investigate at once.
In handling city property this firm was very fortunate in securing the services of Joseph McKinnon, who is an expert in Oakland realty values and who will take full charge of the city department.

The genial A. C. Munroe, of Berkeley, who is known by realty men from coast to coast will attend to all business of the firm outside of Oakland proper.
RECORD-ALFALFA CROP.
BYRON, Nov. 9.—C. J. Preston, owner of a farm two miles out of here, lays claim to the record alfalfa yield on land that is not irrigated. He has just cut the sixth crop on his sixty acres of field, which has netted him a clear sum of $80 an acre. His total profits exceed $4,000.

Burns May Shortly
Make Visit to City of New York

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—Francis Heney has been talking again. He can't seem to stop his gab, no matter how the wind blows or what his cause. Having threatened with jail almost everybody in sight, the election of Tuesday and its result caused him to let go all control and to make more trouble for himself and the prosecution than all his other yawps combined.

Eager to please Spreckels, who ultimately will pay him his fee—that is, unless he is working for nothing—he said the "Call" had been the only honest paper in San Francisco during the campaign against graft.

Just imagine the feelings of Editor Older, who has been hanging around the prosecution all this time and who has been posing as the only Simon pure honest editor in the land, taking a jaunt toward Los Angeles because of his heroism, and suffering his tortures for the cause—and probably an appropriation. Poor Older must think all his adulation and his martyrdom have gone for naught, now that the Spreckels paper has been called the only honest one.

And then there is General de Young. He has been doing all sorts of things to be good to Heney and the rest since they threatened to say of him that he got $30,000 as a fee from the Home Telephone Company. And now, after all his services, he is called dishonest by Heney, and he may not be in a position to make reprisals just yet. But his time may come, and then the General will make Heney squirm.

As for the men whom the Fresno "Republican" calls "the hoodlums who edit the Examiner," they may be expected to put a few burrs under Heney's tail just to see him kick and snort. They have an annoying way of doing such things while seemingly in the forefront of the prosecution, urging on the fray.

The little "Evening News" will also be likely to cut in a little with a sneer or two; and so Heney's lot is not likely to be a particularly happy one. When the decried and denounced editors have had their fun with Heney, he is very apt to look up out of the debris and say with the famous parrot, "I talk too d—n much!"

The election has shown one thing—the old days of fiery elections are over. No more is there a fight at every polling place. The assaults on and defenses of the ballot boxes are no more. The stuffer and repeater are things of the past. The district leader no longer cuts much political ice. Forecasting results from the early balloting is impossible.

Formerly men went to the polling booths, voted and hung around to "chew the rag." If they wanted to do a little business, they hung around and argued before depositing their ballots. The workers and watchers and vote buyers got some idea of how things were going by listening to this talk and estimating the way the money was being put out.

But now, if there is any vote buying, it is done before election day. Probably there is little or none of that old traffic in ballots. None has recently been traced. Men go to the polls, vote, and go away. On Tuesday there was not a crowd at any polling place. No two men exchanged fists, though the campaign had been a hot one.

There were not a score of men who made any pretense of voting illegally. Nearly all these scared off on the first word of inquiry. Nobody rushed a ballot box. There were few so-called "leaders" in evidence on election day. The disrupting of the old "organization" by Ruef and his gang, and then the disrupting of Ruef by the hand of the law, and then the success of Dan Ryan at the primaries probably is responsible for this disappearance of the men who formerly controlled the different districts. The new leaders have not grown yet.

On two occasions San Francisco has suffered a lot on account of a foolish timidity. If the newspapers had told the exact truth about the so-called "bubonic plague," there would have been no cause for alarm. More people have died of the measles than of the "plague." But the very fact that something was covered and hidden caused a sort of blind terror to get abroad, and that terror is just quieting down. The truth would have hurt no one and done a world of good outside the city.

Just now the same fool policy is being pursued with regard to the bankers' panic. What is being suppressed hurts a great deal worse than if all were told. The truth gets exaggerated as it leaks out, and the scare spreads because people magnify everything that is made mysterious.

The most folly was in the case of the closing down of the California Safe Deposit and Trust Company. Everything was smothered or hidden. The people got an inkling here and a suspicion there. They feared that, when it was said this bank was sound, there was no more truth in the statement that the other banks were all right. Hence the present unrest, and the desire to plunge in and draw out money the instant the banks begin paying coin.

If the exact condition of the California Safe Deposit and Trust Company had been told from the start, and if there hadn't been an attempt to keep from the press any mention of the closing of the freakish City Bank out on Fillmore street, there wouldn't have been one-half the signs of panic among the people, and the bankers would soon have recovered from their hysteria.

The cold fact was that the collapse of the California Safe Deposit and Trust Company had long been expected and predicted by bankers, and unless Walker and the Colemans can raise money in the East the failure will be a bad one. The Bank Commissioners have put aside $6,000,000 of the bank's securities as not good, bankable goods. This great amount of securities is not easily marketable.

For instance, there are $2,000,000 in stock of the Western Pacific. That stock probably will have a big value some day; but where would you now take it to be marketed? It is not listed and has no regular quotations. There is also a wad of Tesla Coal Company stock and of the allied Carnegie Brick and Tile Company. All this is not regarded with great favor by the examining Bank Commissioners, and there are persistent rumors that unless money can be raised in the East in large quantities the bank will not pay over fifty cents on the dollar, and that at some day long in the future.

All these rumors undoubtedly are not true, and they grow out of the effort to suppress the exact facts. The suppression also tends to cloud the solvency of other banks and to spread a panicky feeling.

"All business is done on 2 per cent cash and 98 per cent confidence," says Lieutenant Governor Warren R. Porter, himself a banker. "If you destroy the confidence the cash will not begin to take care of the business."

The keeping back of facts does not restore nor promote confidence, but opens the way for rumors and all manner of scare reports.

It is being asked why the Bank Commissioners didn't call down the California Safe Deposit and Trust Company on this $6,000,000 of unmarketable securities before the pinch.

When Zoeth S. Eldridge was appointed a Bank Commissioner some years ago there was a sort of panic among the other members of the Board. He had been a National Bank Examiner and knew his game, and it was feared he would expose the California Safe Deposit and Trust Company. So two other Commissioners rushed to the bank and went through the motions of examining it, so Eldridge would have no excuse for going through the bank for a year. Soon it was found that Eldridge had a bank of his own that he wanted to favor, and all the panic among the other Commissioners ceased.

Just at the critical juncture the other day, Bank Commissioner Charley Garrouette was the only member of the Board on hand in San Francisco. He had just been appointed and knew no more about examining a bank than he did of the moons of Jupiter. So he had to call in ex-Commissioner Dunsmoor, whom his appointment had ousted, and Dunsmoor is now doing the work in the California Safe Deposit and Trust Company.

The graft prosecution has already become an incident of minor importance in the public mind. Financial worries and business disturbances have obscured pretty much everything else for the time being, and bankers and merchants are rather angry at being reminded that they were saying a few days ago that money would be plentiful and business conditions prosperous if Dr. Taylor were only elected Mayor.

During the campaign it was urged that everything depended on sending Patrick Calhoun to State prison. McGowan and Langdon vied with each other in pledging themselves to prosecute Calhoun to the last extremity. Langdon's good faith was not questioned because he never prosecutes anybody, and McGowan was not believed because he promised to prosecute everybody. McGowan was defeated because there are too many men in San Francisco who believe that nobody below the rank of a millionaire should be prosecuted. Jim Gallagher and Kid Sullivan are at one with Rev. Cecil Marrack and E. P. E. Troy on that point.

But the graft prosecution is no longer the topic of general conversation on the streets and in the hotels and barrooms. Letting a horde of criminals go free that one individual may be convicted, even if that individual be guilty of having money, does not now appear to be the great public blessing that the people have been led to believe. Calhoun is probably tickled that the campaign demonstrated what he has all along claimed—that he is the only man Spreckels and Phelan are after with their private prosecution.

One curious result of the election was the rush to seek employment with the United Railroads. Laboring men generally seemed to take the defeat of McCarthy as an evidence that the power of the union was broken, and hastened to find a job wherever they could. The first person they sought was the man who had hit unionism the hardest blow yet dealt on the Pacific Coast.

On the day after election 250 men applied for work at the office of the United Railroads. A few weeks ago many of the same chaps were stoning Pat Calhoun's cars and smashing his employees at every opportunity. A majority of them probably voted for Langdon, but in a dim way the psychology of what really happened dawned on them in the cold gray dawn of the morning after. So they voted one day to send Calhoun to State prison and the next day asked him for work. But the world has a way of going by contraries.

While I have a poor opinion of his executive ability and his "savvy" about the practical side of municipal government, I think Dr. Taylor is preferable to either of the two candidates opposed to him. In the public mind he is associated with honesty and clean methods. He may be a little cranky and visionary, but he is conservative in temperament and has no axes to grind nor machines to placate. His intentions are entirely benevolent, and his ways those of an honest, kind-hearted, unselfish old gentleman on whose whitened head the frosts of nearly seventy years have fallen without chilling the ardor of youth and blighting the illusions which glorify the future in the brave days of twenty-one.

Really, Dr. Taylor is a fine old boy. He makes blunders right and left, but they are blunders of the head, not of the heart. He wants to do more than right, and therefore frequently does the wrong thing. One thing is certain: If anybody uses him it will be without his knowledge and consent. However, his honest heart, his ready faith in human nature and the susceptibility of unsophisticated benevolence to purr and arch with pleasure under the caressing touch of flattery make him rather easy game for schemers.

Unfortunately for Dr. Taylor, he has been placed in a false position by the rainbow promises of his supporters, who asserted that his election would bring easy money and good times. Unless the financial stringency is soon relieved many men will be thrown out of employment and wages cut down.

That is what McCarthy predicted would happen. Of course McCarthy knew the result of the San Francisco election could not affect financial conditions, but he answered his enemies according to their folly. They tried to play on ignorance and credulity, and he followed suit, and it looks as if he would prove the truer prophet.

It is axiomatic that the wage scale is the last thing to rise when prices ascend and the first thing to drop in times of dullness and depression. If wages are cut and the unions forced to submit, McCarthy can say I told you so, and point an accusing finger at the false promises and fool's gold hopes held out by his adversaries. Taylor will be asked in vain for the good times promised in his name. It is a commentary on the political good faith of a certain class of eminently respectable citizens that within a week after they declared that the prosperity of working men depended on Taylor's election they are saying wages must come down.

The Ford trial is compelled to wait on the financial crisis. Ford is out on bail, but the jury are serving an indeterminate sentence of confinement and are kicking like steers about it. They have business demanding attention, and they are yelling murder at being herded off from all social and business intercourse for two or three weeks longer. Judge Lawlor has been trying to persuade the Governor and the bankers to agree to a cessation of the holiday till the Ford case is concluded. But the bankers are inclined to think the Ford case is a nuisance at this juncture, and the proposition of Judge Lawlor as a a tiffle cheeky.

Financiers are inclined to think the vengeance of Spreckels can wait on public necessity. But there is the unhappy jury chafing and swearing in enforced confinement. I asked a lawyer if there was no way to obviate the condition.

"Declare a mistrial and discharge the jury is the only thing I can see to relieve the situation," he expounded. So the protracted holiday season is interfering with something besides business.

The story that the local Grand Jury has decided to ask for its discharge and adjourn sine die is once more in circulation. It is understood to have been the intention of the Grand Jury to go before Presiding Judge Coffey on Saturday of a week ago and ask to be dismissed. The legal holidays declared by Governor Gillett are assigned as the cause of deviation from this programme. The local inquisition is understood to have in its tin box a number of papers, principally reports of committees, while, it is asserted, there are some indictments that have not yet been filed in the collection. Who these indictments, if such they be, are against, is a subject of earnest inquiry by those who imagine they may be interested. It has been stated that the Grand Jury has further business to transact and that it cannot be done on a legal holiday. This would indicate that the inquisitors either wished to vote on or return into court some indictments already found. The Grand Jurors themselves now state, and in this they are supported by District Attorney Langdon, that they will file their final report and ask to be discharged as soon as the legal holidays shall have been discontinued by Governor Gillett.

There was quite a flurry in a small section of the newspaper world of San Francisco last week when the "leased" Call (a daily journal) passed a pay day for the employees of its editorial and news departments.

The trials and tribulations of the "Call" under its new lessees and managers, and their struggles to make profit out of the venture that was sublet to them, have been common talk among newspaper men for the past year and a half.

It had not been generally understood that the financial circumstances of the publication were such that it would have to pass a pay day, which is an occasion of importance to working newspaper men. It had been related, however, that the showing made by the lessees at the end of the first year of their term was not such as to thrill John D. Spreckels with the elation that comes of success.

It is to be hoped that the second and last year of the term for which the "Call" was sublet or leased will be a more profitable one and prove more assuring to Mr. Spreckels.

The history of the profits of the "Call" is well illustrated by a story credited to Mr. Spreckels himself. One day the Commodore was discussing his newspaper venture with a friend, and remarked: "The 'Call' made $4000 last month."

"What?" almost shouted the surprised hearer.

"Oh, I mean it only lost $6000 instead of $10,000," explained John D. with perfect composure and in time to save serious results to his friend because of a shock at its special class of profits in which the "Call" revels.

The "Call" has been a financial "hoodoo" ever since John D. Spreckels started out to purchase it with $250,000, understood at the time to be a contribution from the Allison campaign fund, by the use of which the friends of the Michigan Senator sought to place him in the Presidential chair.

Spreckels, it is related, added about $90,000 of his own and the money of his friends to the political sack and bought the paper. The journalistic venture would have brought financial disaster to a less wealthy and resourceful millionaire than Spreckels long ago. It is understood that the "Call" lost about $300,000 under the spectacular and dazzling administration of Charlie Shortridge.

The working newspaper men feel sorry for the "poor old 'Call,'" as they sympathetically term the sheet. It has furnished a field for employment for many men of the profession or craft and its demise would be regarded with regret, notwithstanding its degenerate editorial and news policy.

Whether the civic reformers, as represented by the so-called prosecution, will be spurred on to increased activity by efforts to indict and convict citizens, is a subject for future debate. The outcome of the election, and become more energetic in their development. They have the bear by the tail and at times give indications of a desire to let go, but cannot very well do so without endangering their own safety. They have already gone much further than was intended by the original contract. That they will be able to convict Tiley L. Ford in his present trial is not made apparent by the evidence in the case. The case put in by the prosecution up to date is much weaker than on the first trial, when the jury stood eight for acquittal and four for conviction.

A straw as to the limitations of the activities of the special and private prosecution may be said to have been whisked before the public in the statement of "Gumshoe" Burns, who said: "I am going East as soon I have tried Calhoun." Heney has duplicated this plank in the platform of the prosecution that is trying to rehabilitate its private fortunes at the expense of the citizens of San Francisco with: "After I have tried Calhoun I will leave the other cases to the District Attorney to attend to."

Now that the Good Government forces have gained such a sweeping victory at the polls, they are busy dividing the spoils of office. The Good Government manipulators claim that to them was due the success of the candidates elected and to them alone belong the spoils. An analysis of the ticket elected shows, however, that the great majority of the successful candidates are friends and associates of Gavin McNab, and will probably train under the political banner of that Democratic chieftain.

The Good Government people are sneezing at the Democrats and claiming that political body accomplished nothing in the campaign, being but merely an insignificant factor. But Gavin McNab, who met with such a painful accident the day following his successes at the polls, will be well and in the saddle again within ten days, and then Isidor Jacobs and William Greer Harrison need give themselves no further concern about the distribution of the loaves and fishes.

The question of who the successful candidates "belong to" is being discussed in the political ways and byways. Mayor Taylor is apparently not a favorite chattel of the Spreckels-Heney-Burns bunch, for the special prosecutor criticised the Mayor unfavorably in his campaign speeches. Exactly what influences will dominate or go hand in hand with Mayor Taylor and his administration has not yet been fully developed. That there must be some forceful control of affairs in San Francisco during the next two years is apparent. Dr. Taylor is inclined to an arm chair and fireside administration, while the city needs a most vigorous and compelling conduct of its upbuilding. Who will furnish this energy is not yet clear.

Of the Supervisors-elect Stafford "belongs" to Spreckels and Murphy is credited to Phelan. The others are regarded as independent of these influences. Five of them were members of the Board that Gavin McNab kept in office for several years, and which contributed much to the city's peace and prosperity. They will not be unfriendly to McNab now. Others of the eighteen would seem, by reason of their associations, to be likely to line up in the McNab column.

Lawrence Dolan, the Sheriff-elect, has trained in the Democratic camp with McNab for many years. Dolan is regarded as a man of sterling loyalty, and the relations between he and the Democratic boss have always been of the most friendly character. Coroner-elect Leland is McNab's friend, physician and political associate. Recorder Godchaux held the same office under the McNab-Phelan administration. M. J. Hynes, the Public Administrator, is a gift to Tom Hickey, the chairman of the Democratic County Committee, and an attorneyship for that office will be Hickey's piece of the pie.

It would thus appear that in the analysis of the results of the election McNab certainly holds top hand.

The Spreckels-Heney civic reform wing hold foreclosure mortgages on the District Attorney and one Supervisor, with possibly another City Father in a pool with Phelan. This is not a very formidable showing for the private reform and personal financial development organization headed by Baron Spreckels, but it appears to be the sum total of its achievement. There is a rift even in this little lute, for there are rumors of Langdon having taken a transfer to some other line of activities for his office during the next two years. To whom he has delivered his "allegiance" for the next official term has not yet been thrown to the political breezes of Fillmore street.

Langdon has trained with the private prosecution and allowed that special interest to run his office for over a year. This is a long time for "Old Muley" to remain hitched to any one post, and, if he follows precedent, he will soon change to another station.

The Good Government League cannot be accused of lack of loyalty to its principles. It is living up to its motto: "The spoils of office belong to the speediest job chaser." While the candidates-elect of this political combination have not yet assumed their local offices, the leaders of the movement are already opening up their next State campaign. Candidates for Governor are being discussed. There seems to be a division in the Good Government party ranks as between Francis J. Heney and William H. Langdon as its nominee for Chief Executive of California. At the present time Heney appears to be in the lead. This is possibly due to his recent explanation of the contents of his veins. There is no other apparent reason for his having an advantage over Langdon even with the Good Government League.

The League is going into the next legislative fight, and the public need not be surprised should the organization trot out Isidor Jacobs as its candidate for United States Senator. Jacobs' claim to the high office is said to rest on his peculiar specialties in canned goods. It is not improbable, however, that Isidor will have to add another product to the output of his factory by canning his own senatorial ambitions.

Once again is San Francisco threatened with the loss of the great William J. Burns. An appropriate day for his departure—except that it might defer the happy event too long—would be Spy Wednesday, the anniversary of the betrayal of Christ by Judas Iscariot. Burns has given out that President Roosevelt requires his services in New York, and that as soon as he has convicted another millionaire he will leave us.

With those who know the gumshoe man, this statement of his that Roosevelt is longing for him is not accepted literally. It is not believed that the President is interested in building up a spy system in New York on the same lines as has developed that vile practice in this city. Roosevelt has never been accused of being a sneak by even his bitterest enemy.

Burns has established a spy system in San Francisco, as an adjunct of the so-called prosecution, that has had no parallel in any other city of the world. That President Roosevelt wishes this example of the work of the gumshoe man duplicated in New York, or that he has even made a suggestion that might be so interpreted, is not believed by anyone.

It is not probable that Burns will leave San Francisco, but that his report of the great demand for him in the East is of home manufacture with a view to causing a higher bid to be placed on his peculiar services here by the prosecution. It is not believable that any other American city would tolerate the Burns methods. Here there is talk of making him Chief of Police. I don't see why, for Biggy is merely his deputy.

Quite a stir has been caused in local society circles by the announcement that the graft prosecution is about to add social revenges to the financial and political spites it has been seeking to gratify by the aid of the Grand Jury, the District Attorney's office and the courts. A story was recently exploited in the private evening organ of the special reformers that two ladies, Mrs. Thomas Eastland and Mrs. Frederick Kohl, had sought to influence the Ford jury by remarks made in favor of that defendant near a screen which separates the trial jurors from the other guests in the dining room of the Fairmont.

The story is as true in its various other details as it is in the location of the scene. It was not in the dining room, nor was there any screen. The jury were passing through the lobby of the house. Many ladies and other guests were assembled there. Mrs. Kohl and Mrs. Eastland were standing together and were moved to refer to the Ford case by the passing of the jury. One of the ladies, who is a friend of the former Attorney General, suggested to her companion that she believed Ford innocent and hoped he would be acquitted.

The Deputy Sheriff in charge of the jury heard the remark and cautioned the lady not to continue the conversation in the presence of the jury, for unconsciously she had been guilty of a technical breach of the law by referring to the case in the presence of the jury.

This occurred more than two weeks ago, but when a few days since the incident came to the attention of the "Baron," the latter, who seeks to constitute himself the arbiter of all matters in San Francisco, political, financial, social, legal, religious or otherwise, proceeded to air his modest egotism with: "I will have them taken before Judge Lawlor," and "I will have Judge Lawlor investigate them," and many other declarations of what "I" will do.

It is because of the "Baron's" announcement that he would take the society ladies into court for investigation by Judge Lawlor that all socialdom is on the qui vive.

Many are the speculations as to whether the "Baron" will seek through the Grand Jury and the courts the balm of revenge for the many social incidents he has seen fit to resent since he undertook to reorganize San Francisco financially, politically and morally to suit his own purposes.

In the meantime society is waiting eagerly, but not patiently, for the cue of the part it is to play in the drama of the graft prosecution.

I came near forgetting to say anything about Danny Ryan. He would have made a great run had not so many men forgot him on election day. He polled less than one-sixth of the total vote cast, and was frightfully abused by the men and newspapers who backed him in the primary.

Still Ryan has control of the Republican organization, and later on he may do a little practical politics as a get even proposition. Shrewd observers are inclined to the opinion that any administration, no matter how good, coming into power at this time, is doomed to fail in trying to please the public, and that Ryan's vindication will come when the Taylor regime will be more generally damned than Phelan's was in its last days.

Where Talking Machines Are Manufactured

Some Interesting Facts About an Industry That Furnishes Entertainment to the Entire Civilized World.

Six years ago several Philadelphians organized a company to engage in the production of an article that may be regarded as one of education and usefulness as well as the greatest musical instrument ever known.

Within this brief period of six years since the company was organized its trade has extended to the uttermost parts of the world. In its shipping department it has been seen in Europe, Africa, Asia, Australia, in far-off Siam, Vladivostok, in equally distant Siberia, Johannesburg, in South Africa, Rio Janeiro, Brazil, Honolulu, Hawaii, and other foreign countries.

This article is the Victor Talking Machine and wherever men live in a state of civilization there comes an incessant and apparently insatiable demand for it. Over $100,000 is added yearly to the wealth of Philadelphia on account of it.

While the Victor plant and offices, which cover nearly four entire blocks, are located at Camden, N. J., very nearly all of the more than 2000 employees live in Philadelphia, right across the Delaware river.

The vast plant includes eight great buildings, the Camden running from four to eight floors in height, and a ninth building is located in Philadelphia. But even these are inadequate to enable the company to keep up with the demand, and work upon several additional huge buildings is pressing now as rapidly as possible.

There are several million dollars' worth of machinery in the plant, and a visitor would be fairly bewildered by its wonderfully massive and intricate machinery employed. A large part of it is hydraulic machinery and a most important one. The city of Camden allows them one five-inch main, but that is less than one-third of what they use. There are scores of wells driven upon the property, and these are connected by four sets of powerful water pumping machinery may draw the water from all of them. The pumping plant in the city would be sufficient for a small city.

MELBA

Enough steam is generated in the great boiler houses to drive scores of steam engines. Much of the steam is used to heat from tables upon which the plastic substance of which the records are made is manipulated before being pressed into shape by the hundreds of hydraulic presses that force it into the matrices of the records.

GREAT SECRECY MAINTAINED.
The manufacture of the composition of which the records are made is regarded by the company as the one most important item in the entire concern. Confined to general supposition, not an ounce of rubber enters into it. The principal ingredient is shellac. The Victor company is the heaviest consumer of shellac in this country, but with one exception. Shellac is bought by the thousands of tons, and the company keeps a stock on hand valued at $300,000 all the time. They will not discuss the other ingredients employed. So strictly guarded is this item that they will not patent any of their compositions, but rely upon that which they regard as the greatest factory secret.

In a four-story structure opposite the main office building there are several chemists employed at an aggregate salary of $50,000 a year, whose business it is to experiment with the various substances and chemicals in a search for a composition that will make records that will entirely eliminate the scratching sound of the reproducing needle as it passes over the records. Improvements along this line are continuous, but they are made only when the records are always as perfect as they can be possibly made, and they are consumed by the millions. In this way the company is able to include the very latest discoveries in the new records.

PERFECT MECHANISM.
So far as the mechanism of the talking machine goes, the limit of its development has been about reached. All further improvements must come from the application of the present machine to different styles of mountings, cabinets, etc. It is in the records that improvements must come. They are nearly perfect now, but the aim is to make them absolutely so.

Once the scratching sound made by the needle can be entirely overcome, the trick will be turned. The scientists of the company have succeeded in decreasing it every year, and they keep right on with their experiments, and will do so until they have mastered the problem.

It is used in the records and sufficient to test the matrices of records with every 1000 pressings. Now the number of pressings between the time a new record is given to the customer and the time it is then ready for the mould.

The original or master record is carefully protected and put away in the fireproof vaults in the basement of the laboratory. These records run into the thousands, and are extremely valuable. As new metal plates must be frequently made from them.

Meanwhile the various ingredients of the composition, being ground as fine as flour, are mixed together with water, and then the mixture is rolled into sheets as thick as the label of a record. After it has been submitted to many tons of hydraulic pressure, it is then cut into square pieces about the size of the records to be made from it. These sheets are placed upon steam-heated tables alongside the presses. The steel rods holding the master records are taken out of the press, the top lifted off the composition laid upon the mould, and the top of the label of the record is placed on the mould. The cover of the mould is replaced and the mould inserted in the press under a pressure of 3000 pounds to the square inch, or a 100-ton pressure to a ten-inch record, and the record becomes a song or a story.

When the record comes from the mould it is polished, and then it passes through the keen scrutiny of sharp-eyed records are discovered, it takes its place in the stock of records. It is a slow process, about 115 records being regarded as an average day's work for a record maker. There are hundreds of men and hydraulic presses at work upon these records, and the daily output reaches 50,000 records.

OPERA STARS WELL PAID.
It costs a small fortune to get Melba, Caruso, Eames, Benvenuti, Scotti, and the other great songbirds of the world to sing for Victor records. At the end of last season Melba posted her record for America for a week in order to make a new series of records, for which she was paid an advance royalty of $100,000, and which she received in opera. Caruso was paid $35,000 for singing thirty selections.

But all these contracts made with them are in the largest sense, and make it is fully understood before they sign it that their singing must be perfect. And the Victor company knows and knows its favorites. The singers seem to enter into the spirit of the thing, and know that they are not singing merely for one audience, which has come quite as much to see themselves as to hear the singers. They know that they are singing for millions in the future.

TAKE PRIDE IN RECORDS.
They take such a pride in making perfect records that it is not necessary to urge them to repeat an aria or a concerted number, if they should happen to sing or play a piece in their singing, or performance there is no chance for them to repeat it or correct it. With a record sometimes sung over a dozen times before the singer is satisfied.

These records are made in the New York laboratory. The company has several singers and musicians of the highest type under a regular salary, and in some cases a very large salary to hear every singer, every concert and every new song and orchestral number that is sent in to the company. The Victor company is also in London, where the National Gramophone Company, which is the one distributing agency, maintains the same sort of service.

Hammerstein bears records in his office at the Manhattan Opera House of voices of singers in Europe who want to secure engagements here. Very many such records are made, and they are of great value. An expert judge of voice, such as Mr. Hammerstein, can tell on record what a singer's voice is like, almost as well as if he heard them sing themselves.

DISC RECORDS AN IMPROVEMENT.
The making of records upon discs was invented and patented by Emile Berliner. The more compact form of the disc record recommended over the cylinder record, but the greatest thing was that the sound waves were recorded upon the disc in a spiral, while the cylinder record the cylinders were made by vertical indentations in the marginal wax. The difference in the two methods is obvious. The point must penetrate the wax cylinder to record the sound the greater resistance it encounters, while on the disc the needle moving freely from side to side encounters no greater resistance at one point than at another. Naturally, the disc record, following the trail of the sound waves toward the center of the disc from the outer edge toward the center, continuously increasing rapidly as it nears the center, and with a regular speed of crossing and confining of the sound waves.

The Berliner Company made all sorts of experiments, and even degree of speed, until it failed in all of them. At that time Edouard Johnson, a French engineer, and his partner in the Victor company, made intricate and delicate machinery for which the Victor company was paid. The Berliner Company appealed to him to build a machine that would secure the desired results. He did so, and he was given an order for 500 of them. So ungrateful was the talking-machine business

BRAVES SEA ALONE IN SLOOP

Young Sailor Starts for Seattle Without Companion in Tiny Craft.

For I am the cook and the captain bold
And the mate of the sea sloop,
And the boy sun light and the midshipmite
And the crew of the captain's gig.

Comprising the crew, cook and cabin-boy, the sloop sailed out of the Golden Gate on the 32-foot sloop yesterday morning on a voyage to Seattle where he expects to re-equip himself and rival Amundsen's exploit by making the Northwest Passage.

There is a recklessness about the scope of Nelson's endeavors that makes the voyage up to Seattle one of the most intrepid ever undertaken from the Pacific Coast. Conservative sailors would deem it as being foolhardy or impossible.

Nelson who is 27 years old, proposes to sail by the Northwest Passage.

TO LASH WHEEL.
At night he will lash his wheel and let the sloop ride in the wind. He will try to maintain constant light, but will be taking the risk of being run down if this should be extinguished.

Nelson is taking his time. He will believe the voyage to Seattle will take six weeks, but that he will be able to fall in with passing steamers and take on a new supply of water at sea.

WANT WORK AHEAD.
I propose to rebuild the Eclipse into a double-ender and take a crew of five men from the Northwest Passage, said Nelson just before sailing yesterday.

HEAD WORK AHEAD.
I expect to make Herschel Island the first year, where I'll try to pick up more natives, and then continue the voyage to Eureka.

I have more than two hard years of work before me, but I'm up to it. I've fired the sea sloop, and I'm a boy of nine and it hasn't many new knots to show me. I'm glad to be out there.

The first day he carried Nelson and his tiny craft out through the Heads yesterday afternoon, and the Point Lobos, where he secured the scope to the speak of white struggling against the ground swell and the waves.

Now the men were wondering whether the last has been heard of sailor Nelson and his cockle-shell sloop.

END OF LIFE OF BABY ELEPHANT

Ugly Temper of Animal Causes Keepers to Execute Beasts.

(Special to the Tribune.)
BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Nov. 9.—In the presence of twenty-one of her mates, Columbia, Barnum's baby elephant, the first one born in America, was strangled to death at Barnum's Bay, winter quarters here today because she had become so unruly that her trainer could no longer manage her.

Since her return to the winter quarters Columbia had been even more unruly. For days at a time she would not permit any of the keepers to come within striking distance of her great trunk, and after being taken by straps and chains, she would charge so furiously that she could not use it to any advantage. Columbia still continued to annoy the owners of the circus, which has passed from Barnum & Bailey to Ringling Brothers, was called. Columbia was sentenced to death.

REQUEST LETTER CARRIER SERVICE

BERKELEY, Nov. 9.—The rapid growth of the northwestern portion of the suburbs of Berkeley, especially along the line of San Pablo avenue, has led to an agitation for an extension of the letter carrier service. Petitions are now in circulation among the residents of Regatta Park and other districts near the Contra Costa county line asking for a daily delivery, morning and afternoon.

The petition declares that there are about 3000 people in the district for which the extension of the service is asked. Postmaster Merrill has applied for six additional carriers, and in case this request is granted it is probable the Regatta Park district will be incorporated within the carrier limits.

MUST SPEND LIFE IN PRISON; DOESN'T CARE

(Special to the Tribune.)
SEATTLE, Nov. 9.—As in past sixty years the penalty does not take from me more than ten years of life at best, so why should I have been sentenced to return to prison without him? McWilliams was accused of kidnapping his own children from this city. He was arrested in San Diego. On the count of the second arrest Sheriff Smith may have to answer to a charge of contempt of court in San Diego.

HYPNOTIST ARRESTED AND RELEASED TWICE

(Special to the Tribune.)
SANTA ROSA, Nov. 9.—Twice arrested and released on habeas corpus, E. F. McWilliams, the San Francisco hypnotist, is free and Sheriff Smith of this county has been ordered to return him without him. McWilliams was accused of kidnapping his own children from this city. He was arrested in San Diego. On the count of the second arrest Sheriff Smith may have to answer to a charge of contempt of court in San Diego.

CARICATURE OF CARUSO.
Drawn by himself, singing to the Victor.

The company is now over 3000 orders behind for the Victor Victrola. The demand for the high-priced machines is the best sort of evidence that the Victor company has found a permanent home with the wealthy and cultured. This is particularly true of the Victor Autograph, which retails at $450.

It has a motor that compresses air into a cylinder and the air flows in a strong current past the diaphragm and out through the horn just as the air flows from the throat and secures almost an absolutely perfect reproduction of the sound waves created by the singer.

MILIONS OF NEEDLES.
The one item of needles is one that supplies staggering figures. A fresh needle is made with a steel sufficiently hard to reproduce the vibrations of the diaphragm, and yet so soft as to be bent and broken. They sell at 10 cents a hundred.

These needles are made at two factories. In New York in spite of the fact that millions of needles are used, the company does not care a great deal for the

MILAN ARTISTS TO PRESENT OPERA IN HEARST THEATER

Arrangements have been made with the Milan Opera Company for a production of Leoncavallo's "Pagliacci" on the night of November 16.

Signorina Lina Bertozzi will sing the role of Nedda, and Pinusani, who made such a favorable impression in San Francisco, will be heard as Tonio. The part of the clown will be sung by Signorina "Pagliacci", more than any other opera, old or new, lends itself to presentation on the stage of the Great Theater as the scenic requirements are very slight. The opera itself will form but a part of the evening's program, for all the principals in the company will be heard in selections from Italian opera.

The numbers chosen are among the most popular by the great composers. The mad scene from "Lucia" by Signora Padovani, the prison scene from "Faust" with Signorina Ferrabini and Signors Ferola and Lambardi, and the so-called "Lucca" with Padovani, Ferola, Ferola, Lambardi, Giana, and Balletti, are the principal items. In addition to these, Arcangeli will sing the "Credo" from "Otello"; Gionales will sing an aria from "Aida"; Signorina Truiani will sing the California from "The Barber of Seville"; and the Violet Song from Mascagni's "L'Amico Fritz" which has never been performed in California, will be sung by Signorina Ferrabini.

The Milan Opera Company will employ its own orchestra, under the direction of Agide Jacobia, and will open the program with the Overture, "Mignon."

3 COUNTIES TO CITY OFFICIALS BORE FOR OIL WILL CONVE

Newly Discovered Petroleum Belt Covers 24 Sections of Land.

(Special to the Tribune.)
BYRON, Nov. 9.—The discovery of large deposits of petroleum near here has developed the fact that the oil belt extends into three counties, Contra Costa, San Joaquin and Alameda. It covers twenty-four sections of land, and is nearly twelve miles in length.

Already a number of companies have been formed to develop the oil deposits, which promise to rival those of Kern county. Eastern capital has been secured in many instances and those concerns which will go ahead with the well-boring and development work will use the latest improved methods.

It is said by the companies that more than $300,000 will be expended in this work.

CHARGED WITH HAVING NO NUMBER ON AUTO

E. E. Mason, a salesman, was arrested by Officer O'Grady at Seventh and Broadway yesterday afternoon on the charge of violating the city ordinance requiring the number to be placed on an automobile. Mason deposited $10 bail for his appearance in police court Monday.

THE HEART OF RICHMOND

Buying Now Means a Fortune Later

A great deep water canal for ocean going ships is now being dredged inland from San Francisco bay to "The Heart of Richmond." Along this canal will be a belt line railroad connecting with the Santa Fe, Southern Pacific and the new Western Pacific. Ships and railroads will here exchange freight. This will make the western section of "The Heart of Richmond" the water front of the city of Richmond.

At the end of the canal will be the ferry building where the boats will land that ply between Richmond and San Francisco. Wouldn't you like to own a lot near this ferry building? Think of the money you could make in rentals. This is the best investment for the man of moderate means in the whole State by California. Where else would he be so safe, where else would his money earn so much?

In Seattle today lots 50x100, lying on the water front but not filled in, cannot be bought for less than $10,000 to $20,000. Yet you can buy a lot on Richmond's water front for $900—and on easy terms.

"The Heart of Richmond" is to be the common business center of the city of Richmond, as it is equal distant from the two built-up sections. Stores, office buildings, the city's municipal buildings and the hotels will be in "The Heart of Richmond" so as to be accessible to the whole city.

In other sections of "The Heart of Richmond" you can get property for as low as $450 a lot—Buy it—hold on to your land—you will soon get good income from it or you can sell at a great advance in price.

CHICAGO CLUB AWARDS PRIZE TO DR. STEUART

The prize annually offered by the Chicago Medical Club for the best musical setting of a selected poem has just been awarded to Dr. H. J. Steuart, a well-known San Francisco musician and composer.

ARREST DOCTOR.
SANTA ROSA, Nov. 9.—Dr. A. J. H. Lawrence of Camp Meeker, was early this morning brought to jail here on the charge of assault with a deadly weapon upon Mrs. Maude Boies. The aged physician says that it is quite work on the part of Mrs. Boies because he accused her of stealing some chickens. One case will be heard on preliminary examination next week.

TEAMSTER CHARGED WITH PETIT LARCENY
Willis Gulesino, a teamster employed by

MONTICELLY, Ala., Nov. 8.—"Roosevelt and such demagogues have destroyed the confidence of the public in railroad and other securities."

This is the statement made by President J. M. Hanson, of the Central Georgia Railway and Banking Company, at a joint meeting of the committee on commerce and common carriers of the two houses of the Legislature, which held a session to discuss the bill to regulate the railroads.

The statement was brought forth while Hanson was discussing the present crisis, and saying that it would be a bad idea for Alabama to take up the popular clamor just because the politicians were back of it.

MADE CONTRIBUTION.
I voted for Roosevelt," said Hanson, "and I contributed to his campaign fund, but I would not vote for him now for dog-catcher. If the Standard Oil Company and the meat packers had as many votes as the farmers' union, Roosevelt would never have asked for an investigation."

Hanson frankly admitted that his road had contributed to the campaign, but said that he did not know how much or to what account it had been charged on the books of the company.

MRS. PHOEBE HEARST GUEST OF HONOR AT ELABORATE LUNCHEON

FOR MRS. HEARST.

Mrs. J. H. McGovern, of 205 Oakland avenue, Piedmont, gave a luncheon on Friday of last week, the guest of honor being Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst.

Mrs. McGovern is a relative of Mrs. Hearst, and the party was made up of other members of the family. Mrs. Joseph M. Flint, Mr. and Mrs. John Apperson and the guest of honor, Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst.

DINNER AT KEY ROUTE INN.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Havens presided at a small dinner at the Key Route Inn last evening. The others of the party were General and Mrs. Oscar Fitzalan Long and Miss Avis Sterling.

FRIDAY NIGHT CLUB.

On Friday of this week the first of this season's dances of the Friday Night Club will be given, and the members of the younger set are eager with anticipation. The Friday Night Club has for years included in its membership the younger members of the exclusive set, and this year's list of members is a long and interesting one. About five hundred cards are out for the assemblies of this season, and most of them have already brought acceptances. The dances will be held in the beautiful halls of the Home Club.

The patronesses who will direct the affairs of the club are Mrs. William H. Chickering, Mrs. Edward M. Walsh, Mrs. D. H. Mathis, Mrs. J. F. Sims, Mrs. Martin Kates, Mrs. F. C. Coogan and Mrs. Q. A. Chase.

"BI-BI."

The production of "Bi-Bi," the musical extravaganza to be given at the 8341 auditorium on Nov. 15 and 16, is creating no end of interest among the young society element of the city. Rehearsals of the play are most encouraging, the story of the play holding possibilities for the introduction of many novel features.

Katie, the Toyman's daughter, goes to sleep amid the toys and dolls of her father's shop, and dreams a wonderful dream wherein the bisque and wooden creatures become animated and a night of revelries ensues. Bi-Bi, the French doll, is an incorrigible flirt. She toys with the affections of all the masculine creatures in the toyshop, but faithless to all of them, elopes to the Milky Way with the Man in the Moon.

Pursued by the entire toy population, exciting adventures befall everyone during the excursion among the clouds. Brought back by the fairies, Bi-Bi is punished for her escapades by being changed into a mere doll again. At the solicitation of her faithful lover, Bon-Bon, the soldier doll, she is again restored, however, and is given to him in marriage, but the wedding festivities are interrupted by the dawn of day. The charm is broken, and Katie awakes in the toyshop to find it all a dream, with only the vanishing strains of fairy music in her ears to remind her that anything unusual has happened.

The players are placed with excellent judgment in the cast, the list including: Gluepot, the toy-maker, John McMillan; Katie, his daughter, Miss Ruth Woodbury; Bi-Bi, the French doll, Mrs. Beach; Bon-Bon, the rag doll, Mrs. Carroll; and a doll's head, Mrs. Welles Whitmore; Topsy, a pickaninny doll, Miss June Connor; Sylvia, the fairy queen, Mrs. George Flint; Sargent Bon Bon, a soldier doll, Frank Huss; Prince Caramel, a painted doll, Willard Barton; Tillerose, a sailor doll, Leo Weil; the Man in the Moon and the Sandman, Mr. Graydon. Groups of of Noah's ark animals, letter blocks, jumping-jacks, paper dolls, fairies, rag babies, Japanese dolls, bridesmaids and fairies will make the list of performers a very long one.

The dances brought in with the action of the play are very pretty. One is to be a minuet, a group of graceful children treading the stately measures. This feature promises to be one of the prettiest in the production.

AT KEY ROUTE INN.
Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bennet and Miss H. V. Parker, well known residents of New York, are at the Key Route Inn. They are visiting the coast for pleasure. Other names of local interest on the register at the Key Route Inn are Mrs. Gail Borden, of Los Angeles, and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Chandler and Miss H. V. Parker, of Tonopah, Nev.

SILVER WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. John Nuby, of 1107 East Twenty-first street, are to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage on Friday evening, Nov. 15.

About fifty of the close friends of the family have been invited, and many preparations have been made to give the guests a most enjoyable evening. Decorations of crepe in effective shades are to be combined with cut flowers and greens, and the attractive home will present a most festive appearance on the occasion.

A supper and an interesting program of musical numbers will complete the pleasures of the evening.

PARTY AT CLUB-HOUSE.

Cards are out for a most delightful affair planned by Miss Camille Theobald and her brother Beverly Theobald, of Alameda, for Saturday evening, Nov. 16.

The party is to be given in the building of the Endicott Boat Club, in order to accommodate the large number of friends of the popular young people who are giving the affair. Their guests will number about one hundred and fifty, and will include all of the socially important young people in the younger set of Alameda and Oakland.

The evening hours will be devoted to dancing, interspersed with musical numbers by Mr. Metcalf, Jas. Rosborough, the Misses Irene and Ethel Taylor and others. A supper will be served late in the evening in the upper hall. The entire building is to be placed at the disposal of Mr. and Miss Theobald and their guests. It will be prettily decorated with pennants and greens, and should make an ideal setting for the party. The affair is held in eager anticipation by the guests bidden.

WRIGHT-COOLIDGE.

Mrs. Emeline B. Wright has sent out cards for the marriage of her daughter, Miss Katherine Horton Wright, and Geo. H. Coolidge. The marriage will be solemnized on Sunday next at 2 in the afternoon, at the home of the F. O. Erwin, 1025 Brandon street, Fruitville.

Mrs. Erwin is the mother of the bride.

MISS RUBY M. LIBBY.

MISS KATHERINE HORTON WRIGHT.

groom, and it is at her request that the wedding ceremony is to be performed at her home. For another reason the house is very large, and will better accommodate the large wedding company bidden by the young people. The invitation list includes about two hundred names.

The plans for the wedding are on an elaborate scale, and it will undoubtedly be a very charming affair.

The drawing room, which is on the second floor of the house, is to be the setting for the wedding. It is to be done wholly in pink, a favorite color of the bride. Pink flowers and ribbon and tulle are to form the bower, and flowers of the same shade will be used in the rest of the room. The halls, stairway and dining room are to be decorated in yellow chrysanthemums and palms.

The bride's gown is of rajah moire, trimmed delicately with baby Irish lace. It is made without a train, the bride's mother wisely deciding that a simple model would be most becoming to the girlish figure of the bride. She will wear a wreath of orange blossoms, and will carry a shower bouquet of white blossoms, elaborated with knots of satin ribbon and tulle.

Miss Adrienne Mulvaney, the maid of honor, will wear a charming gown of pink chiffon, embroidered in white dots; it is made over a slip of pink silk. She will carry a shower bouquet of pink blossoms, and will wear a half garland of pink roses in her hair.

Mrs. William Raffetta, the matron of honor, will wear an elaborate gown of pink pompadour silk; she will wear with it a handsome hat of white lace, prettily trimmed in pink plumes.

Miss Millie Ambrose is to attend as flower girl. Her gown is of white net over pale pink, and will be made very elaborate by a unique use of flower garlands. She is to have a garland of pink roses on her head, one around her shoulders, and one at the waist line, falling over the skirt. She will also wear a sack of white silk, embroidered in pink roses, and will carry a gold basket filled with long stemmed pink roses.

The mother of the bride, Mrs. A. B. Wright, will wear a handsome gown of black silk crepe de chene.

The Rev. Charles R. Brown, of the First Congregational Church, is to read the marriage service.

A. A. Moran, a close friend of the bridegroom, is to attend as best man.

Halfway to the wedding supper, which will be in keeping with the elaborate details of the rest of the arrangements.

The bride-to-be is the granddaughter of Captain J. T. Wright, of Oak street, and is a very popular girl. She is pliant and pretty, and was a great favorite in university circles during her college days. She was graduated from the class of '06.

Mr. Coolidge is proprietor of the Ocean Market in San Francisco, where he has been in business for some years. He is regarded very highly in business circles in San Francisco, and is very popular in a social way in Oakland. He makes his home with Mr. and Mrs. Erwin in Fruitville, where the young people will remain as guests for a short time after their return from their wedding journey.

RETURNS FROM CHICAGO.

Miss Ruby M. Libby has returned to her home in Oakland, after an extended tour of the East.

While away Miss Libby visited Niagara Falls, Buffalo, and other points of interest in the vicinity, and she also took that fascinating trip up the St. Lawrence to the Thousand Islands.

Miss Libby spent some time in Chicago, and as she is a motorist of no mean ability, she saw much of the life of the big city. She also took an active part in the smart affairs given by the Columbia Yacht Club.

The weather being too cold to permit further traveling, Miss Libby has returned to the land of "flowers and sunshine," where she will take part in the important social affairs of the winter.

RETURNS TO OAKLAND.

Mr. and Mrs. H. B. McDonald, who have been for the past two months traveling through the Eastern and Southern States, have returned to Oakland.

TENTH ANNIVERSARY.

In honor of their tenth anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Enright gave an elaborate dinner to a few of their near relatives and immediate friends at their pretty home, 467 Thirty-eighth street, on last Wednesday evening. About two dozen persons sat down to an elaborate dinner prepared by a specially selected chef, and after the repast the evening was spent in singing, dancing, games and music. The event was hugely enjoyed.

The following were among the guests: Mr. and Mrs. P. Enright, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Kelly, Miss Camille Kelly, George Kelly, A. G. Lowrie, Mrs. Emily Pederson, Miss Evelyn Tibbets, Miss May Tibbets, H. McKenna, Julie, Lewis Patrick Mieran, Miss Hattie Adams, Miss Clara Enright, Miss Kathryn Enright, John B. Enright, Col. W. J. Sanderson. The house was artistically decorated.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Mrs. Dr. Henning Kohler entertained a party of young people on Friday evening, as a birthday surprise to her daughter, Miss Nina Kohler.

The house had been prettily decorated in Miss Nina's absence, huckleberry greens and chrysanthemums serving to make the rooms attractive, and the guest of honor was thoroughly surprised to find her friends assembled and all ready for the festivity.

An evening of music and games made the birthday most enjoyable, and a dainty supper added much to the pleasure of the guests. Many pretty gifts were brought to Miss Kohler, and the affair was in all ways most successful.

Participating in the pleasure of the occasion were Miss Grace Hisen, Miss Lolla Sheldon, Miss Violet Clark, Miss Emma Colgett, Miss Violet Gove, Miss Florence Maine and Miss Gladys Peterson.

GONE SOUTH.

Mrs. L. E. Eigelow has gone South to remain over the holidays. She is accompanied by her young son, Melvin Nesbit Eigelow.

AT PACIFIC GROVE.

Mrs. Ellis Paulam, whose husband is special agent of the United States Treasury Department, now stationed in Santa Domingo, has purchased a lovely home in the woods of Pacific Grove. Here she and her children will spend much of their time. Mrs. Paulam's mother and sister, Mrs. M. H. Cartwright and Miss Cartwright, of Berkeley, have taken a home in the Grove. Another daughter is the wife of Lieutenant William Graham of the Monterey Presidio, so there are many family reunions. Mrs. E. R. Green, the wife of Dr. Green of Berkeley, is also a sister of Mrs. Paulam, and was in the Grove until a few weeks ago.

Col. L. H. Briggs and his daughter, Miss Anna Frances Briggs, who spent last winter sketching in the Grove, were at Pacific Grove Hotel for a short time. Miss Briggs has purchased a piece of land adjoining the J. P. Pryor's home, and expects to build a studio there next year.

Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Weber of Berkeley have been receiving congratulatory visits from friends who came to meet the tiny new daughter who arrived a short time ago. Mrs. Weber is a sister of Dr. W. T. Jamison, a prominent physician of the Grove, and for several months she has made her home in that attractive seaside resort. Mr. Weber, who is a clever young mining engineer, will remain a few weeks longer with his wife, before going on to Mexico.

COSMOS WHIST CLUB WILL BE ENTERTAINING MONDAY

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gordon of Oakland were recently entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Stanford, who have had a charming house down by the sea during the summer.

Senator George C. Perkins, who was expected to be present at the laying of the cornerstone of the new Carnegie library in Pacific Grove on November 9, found it impossible to attend, but before he and his daughter, Miss Pansy Perkins, leave for Washington, they will spend a few days at the Pacific Grove Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Shaw of Oakland were recent guests at the hotel.

COSMOS CLUB.

Mrs. Will Meek is to entertain the members of the Cosmos Whist Club at her home, near Hayward, tomorrow. All of the members, regular and substitute, have been invited, and a most delightful afternoon is expected. The club is one of the most exclusive in the local circle, and includes in its membership Mrs. Edson Adams, Mrs. P. L. Barker, Mrs. J. B. Burnham, Mrs. Q. A. Chase, Mrs. M. C. BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Little Miss Florence Wamsley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Wamsley, celebrated her sixteenth birthday on Friday afternoon. Fifteen small friends of the little girl participated in the affair, and enjoyed a variety of games and a feast planned with reference to the tastes of the young guests. The long table was prettily decorated, the birthday cake occupying the place of honor.

Little Miss Florence shared her birthday glees with Violet Wamsley, Mabel Sheehan, Myrtle Wamsley, Bernice Wamsley, Nellie Ward, Margaret Ward, Helen Cunningham, Cecelia McCann, Annie Carica, Leta Smyth, Clara Smyth, Mamie Thomas, Irene Pasho and Bert Sheehan.

Mrs. J. Thomas, Mrs. W. H. Wamsley and Mrs. G. Wamsley assisted in doing the honors at the party.

DUCK DINNER AND CARDS.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Layman entertained the members of a very delightful five hundred club on Tuesday evening, the game being preceded by a most enjoyable dinner. The crowning distinction of the exceedingly well appointed meal was the fact that the ducks served were part of the spoils of a hunting party which Mr. Layman, Mr. J. Walter Scott and Mr. George C. Fardee were highly successful.

The game of five hundred filled out a most enjoyable evening. The regular members of the club are Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hutton, Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Mohrman, Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Boyer, Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Boyer, Mr. and Mrs. Abo Leach, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Schrack, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Craft and Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Layman. In addition to the regular list, the party on Tuesday night also included Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Dunge and Dr. and Mrs. George C. Fardee.

AT DINNER.

Mrs. John Foster, one of the popular society matrons of the local set, entertained elaborately at dinner on Wednesday evening in honor of George May, of Oshkosh, Wisconsin.

Artistic decorations of carnations and trailing foliage made the handsome home unusually attractive, the table decorations being especially pretty. About twenty guests enjoyed Mrs. Foster's hospitality.

SOUVENIR CLUB.

The Souvenir Club enjoyed a most delightful afternoon on Saturday at the home of Mrs. L. Rora, 320 Nineteenth street, playing five hundred, which is the favorite game of the club.

Besides the regular prizes, there is always a drawing for the souvenir cup, the winner withdrawing from subsequent (Continued on next page.)

The Old Skipper

TELLS HOW HE MADE RECORD VOYAGE WITH ELECTRIC EELS

JACK WISNIAHK.

"What was the fastest passage that ever I made? Well, I don't have to waste any gray matter in recalling that," remarked the Old Skipper, gazing quizzically at a troop of college boys in noisy socks, balloon trousers and small hats. "It was in the days before the likes of them existed," he continued, "and when college training meant something. To be exact, it was in '65. At that time I was skipper of the Swallow, a bark Stella. This was one of the first of the iron ships. She was built along clipper lines and was like her spouter, Stella, was a character. One of those poor brainless individuals, old, homely and impressed with her own importance, which was absolutely nil. Well, this old ship was the same. Some times she would do all right for a while, but then things would go bad with her and she would take half a year to make a 30-day voyage.

"Well, on this day I was layin' in the harbor of Rio Janeiro. There was the old clipper Swallow alongside. She was supposed to be one of the fastest ships afloat. There wasn't a voyage that she didn't break a record. Well, the night before we were both to drop down around the old Sugar Loaf and put to sea, the skipper of the Swallow comes on board. I don't remember how it happened but he got talking about what a wonderful ship he had and sympathizing with me for havin' an old packet that couldn't get to port except in the time that any self-respecting ship would have scorned to take. Well, the worst of it was that I made a bet with him that I would beat him into Cape Town, for we were both headed there. He thought I was daffy, but he took the bet which was for five hundred pounds sterling.

"We dropped down the river next morning and away we went for Cape Town. Before the day was half over the top of the Swallow were just to be seen over the edge of the horizon far ahead. I walked the poop and cursed my luck for it would have taken all of my savings to have paid that bet.

"I knew it was all off with me. I supposed the Swallow would be in port a month before I would get there. But it just happened that we had on board a consignment of electric eels which had been caught near the Amazon and brought to Rio. They were to be shipped to an English scientist who was making a study of them. I also rigged a long boom ahead of the ship's sides attracted him so strongly that he was held to the side like a needle to a magnet. That gave me an idea.

"I rigged collars for 50 of these eels and attached a long line to each collar. Then with rubber gloves I put these collars on the eels. I also rigged a long boom ahead of the ship with a line attached to that. I dropped the eels over the bow and attached a line to their heads and to the end of this long boom.

"Next day we slowed down and I knew that the electricity in the eels was becoming weak so I took them in and put another relay in the harness. We fished all day and just as the sun was setting we were in the harbor of Cape Town. The Swallow arrived.

"It was the fastest passage on record. The skipper of the Swallow was so chagrined that he thought I was a wizard and quit the sea."

TO AID HOME FOR CHILDREN

Noted Child Impersonator and Reader on Program of Benefit Concert.

A benefit concert to aid the Children's Home is to be given in Ebell Hall on December 5th. Those interested in the affair have gone to considerable trouble in making up a program of events. One of the parties interested is Miss Pearl Stanley, the child impersonator and reader. She will appear in a varied program, assisted by a number of well-known society women.

Miss Stanley has only recently returned from New York City where she has spent the last four years in study. She is not only an interesting entertainer, but is extremely well liked in Oakland, and a great favorite in club circles and socialdom.

What Newbro's Herpicide

has done for others it may do for you

Clarence Hamilton.

"Enclosed you will find a recent photograph of me showing the growth of my hair since beginning the use of your Herpicide. Before using Herpicide, the top of my head was completely bald, but the use of your Herpicide has brought a new growth of hair. I had spent between $20 and $50 on other remedies, but failed to derive any benefit until using your Herpicide. I cannot commend this remedy too highly to you with grateful, business or family."

(Signed) Clarence Hamilton,
Atlanta Police Department,
Atlanta, Georgia.

WHILE CHRONIC BALDNESS is incurable, many cases of primary or incipient baldness have been completely cured with Newbro's Herpicide, the original remedy that kills the dandruff germ. Of course, the rational plan is to save the hair while there is hair to save, but even after it is gone there is a "fighting chance" if the hair follicles are not atrophied. Herpicide stops itching of the scalp instantly.

CITY JAILER WEARS ONE SHOE POLISHED

Jailer Fred Schroder of the city jail has a trusty of whom he is very fond. He is so fond of him that he has made him chief of all the trusties. Whenever there is a piece of work to do which he wishes done as well as he could do it himself he has this exemplary trusty do it for him. In all things Schroder considers the man a model.

The reason is now being given at the police station why Schroder has not shined the shoe on his right foot for the last two days. The jailer is very particular about his appearance and at all times puts up a spick and span front. When he appeared yesterday with his right shoe presenting a dead, dull surface instead of the accustomed glittering shine there was talk, and last night Schroder explained his seeming laxity.

SPILLS SOUP.
It appears that in a moment of worry and hurry last Thursday, the chief trusty, who was carrying the rich boiled beef soup the inmates of the city jail receive at least once a day, made a misstep and the entire contents of the soup can was emptied on Schroder's right foot. Ever since he has been endeavoring diligently to remove the soup stains, but they continue to stick. It will be some time before Schroder's right shoe will carry its usual polish.

SALINAS BELLE WEDS ARCHITECT

(Special to the Tribune.)

The ceremony was performed under a wedding bell of chrysanthemums in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends of the couple.

The bride was gowned in white satin trimmed with lace. She was attended by Miss Martin. The groom was attended by Jack Olson.

The couple will make their home in San Jose after a honeymoon in the South.

SEATTLE AFTER JOB OF REPAIRING LOGAN

In the opinion of officers of the War Department San Francisco firms that expect to bid on making repairs to the army transport Logan must bestir themselves if they would obtain the big contract.

Seattle firms, including the Morans, who built the battleship Nebraska, are known to be making every effort to underbid the firms of San Francisco, and with some prospect of success, judging from remarks made by Seattle people.

It has been published, too, that Seattle merchants have raised a sum approximating $25,000 to be given any Seattle firm that may obtain the work.

The government will expend more than $200,000 on the Logan, the repairs and alterations including new upper decks and general overhauling that will consume months of time. Bids for the work will be opened in San Francisco next Tuesday.

ONLY A FEW MORE DAYS REMAIN TO GET VOTES
HARD WORK IS NECESSARY
Don't Be Fooled by Thinking You Have Enough Votes.

Only a few more days remain in which to obtain enough votes to be declared the winner. Don't despair now, but redouble every effort, have your friends do the same and work the hardest during the remaining days, in an effort to win the prize.

Evidently some good work was done over Sunday, as the standings of several of the contestants were materially bettered.

It is necessary to put in all the time that can possibly be spared during the next few days in getting votes and subscriptions, as the time is getting shorter and subscriptions are scarce.

A FEW MORE DAYS.

Only a few more days remain, to work for the prizes, and in that time a great amount of work will have to be done. Your opponents may have more votes than you think and if you think you have enough to win, it wouldn't be wise to stop work, for probably a few thousand votes is what you need to win.

Go on the idea that you haven't half enough, then set right down to an earnest campaign and secure the other half.

Scores of subscriptions are being turned

NEWARK PRESBYTERIAN CALL OAKLAND PASTOR
NEWARK, Nov. 9.—The Rev. Dr. Curry of Oakland officiated at the Presbyterian Church on Sunday last and so pleased, were the members that a call unanimous was issued asking the clergyman to become the pastor of the church. It is not yet known whether the call will be accepted.

The work of laying sewer pipe on Thornton avenue is being carried on by a large force of men under the supervision of road overseer Sayles. A new cottage has been finished just below the town on the flats, and it is said more are to follow.

Mrs. Harry Wales and Miss Alma were guests at the meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society held at the home of Mrs. Charles Cockfair last Wednesday. The women are very busy filling orders for sewing and will meet each week until the holidays.

I. B. Merrill is at his desk again at the station office.

Mrs. Thomas Kirby is visiting Mrs. Harry Wales for a few days.

Mr. Silva, who was so seriously injured by falling against a live wire last week is getting better but slowly.

Harry Favor, wife and baby are visiting relatives in Oakland.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Munyan went to Hayward Sunday to greet Mrs. Munyan's father, who has lately returned from a business trip to Europe and the Azores.

Come and See the wonderful performance of
The
SAVORY ROASTER
The Superior of Any Roaster Ever Made.

The actual demonstration of how it does its work can be witnessed daily this week at our Oakland store from 9 to 5 o'clock, the Garland Gas Range being used in the demonstration.

SAVORY

Come and Taste Its Cooking

We show how a second cut or even a tough piece of meat will come out of the pan tender and naturally flavored. It will even transform a 5-year-old hen into a spring chicken. It bakes apples whole and well done every time—something no other roaster can do. It is truly a wonder in cookery.

Being oval top and bottom, there are no seams or corners—easily kept clean. Heat is evenly distributed, meat can't burn, basting is done from the steam generated from the meat itself. When the basting is done the browning of the meat is automatically performed, every bit of the rich meat flavor being retained.

TAKES STEPFATHER'S NAME LOSES LEGACY

NEW YORK.—Because he changed his name when his mother was divorced from his father, Albert O. Mason was not named in the will of his mother, Dr. Julius Gerth, which was admitted for probate in the Orphans' Court, Newark, by Deputy Surrogate Korher. Korher decided that the entire estate, valued at $26,000, should go to Dr. Gerth's widow.

Mason was a son of the testator by a previous marriage, and when his mother obtained a divorce and married again he dropped the name of his stepfather. He contested the will when it was first offered for probate and also raised a question as to the validity of Dr. Gerth's marriage to the woman who is now his widow.

CHICAGO—A number of Chicago physicians have expressed their disagreement with the extreme views of Dr. W. S. Hoy, president of the American Association of Railway Surgeons, regarding what ought to be done to physicians who don't make timely use of the knife in appendicitis cases. In an address before the railway surgeons in this city, Dr. Hoy asserted he thought it was high time for legal recognition and punishment for delay in diagnosis and operation for appendicitis.

It is a most extravagant statement," said Dr. William H. Mayo, 1102 State street. "One might as well advocate jail sentence for the doctor who refuses to administer chloroform to a patient in approaching a degree of fantastic ideas that is surprising for a physician."

"I don't care to be quoted," said another physician, "but it is hardly believable that such a statement should be accredited by the doctors. The doctor has enough trouble and has to figure to cure in every case should be subject to imprisonment by the law. The doctor has enough trouble without running the gamut of jail sentence every time a man comes to him with a pain in the side."

Hoy's Statement.

Dr. Hoy issued the following statement: "There has been some misunderstanding concerning my statements, but I do not wish to recede from the position taken. I did not advocate the placing upon the operation table of anyone who feels a slight pain in the side or has a feeling of vomiting, but I did say, and repeat that where the diagnosis has

In Charge Candy Booth, St. John's Guild Fair.

GUILD FAIR OPENS TUESDAY

Plans of Women of St. John's Church to Result in Splendid Attraction.

The ladies of St. John's Guild have completed plans for their fair, which will be held Tuesday and Wednesday, afternoons and evenings, November 13 and 14, at Scottish Rite Hall, corner of Fourteenth and Harrison streets.

The ladies have been planning and working for the event since the first of October. They have made boxes of fancy and useful articles, and there are dozens of dainty little pin cushions, sachets, napkins, holders, and dollies. There are many pairs of warm bed room slippers and tufted rugs and comforters, all the work of the women of the guild and their friends.

MANY EXTRA MEETINGS.

The guild has been devoting its regular meetings to sewing and many extra meetings have been held at the various homes. Besides all the work done at these gatherings much has been done by the individual members, and the women of the society express thanks to the merchants of Oakland who have been so generous with donations.

One of the features of the fair will be a table of home made delicacies, presided over by Mrs. Cowling and Mrs. Moudry. Everything sold at this table has been made by the ladies and the quantities of nutmeg meat, cakes and pies, "such as mother used to make," will be most tempting.

There will also be a table of home-made candies and ice cream and "goodies."

The hall is being decorated with palms and ferns, vases, lanterns and flags, and the tables will be arranged and trimmed most effectively.

CHILDREN'S AFTERNOON.

Wednesday afternoon will be devoted to the children and will be under the special direction of Miss Sumner. Then will come a fancy dress and other features of interest to the children.

There will be an exceptionally fine musical program on Wednesday evening, and some excellent numbers will be heard. The Misses Lily and Theresa Sherwood will play several duets on the piano, and Verne McPherson, the singer of the illustrated songs, has also given her services. James Todd, the violinist, and Mr. Folger, the monologist, are also on the program.

FOR RECTORY FUND.

The proceeds from the fair are to be devoted to the rectory fund, and in all probability a generous sum will be realized, as the women have spared neither time nor money to make the fair a success.

THOSE IN CHARGE.

The ladies in charge of the different tables are:

Delicacy table—Mrs. Cowling and Mrs. Moudry; burnt work and Hawaiian goods, Mrs. Haneberg and Mrs. Rowland; fancy work, Mrs. M. H. Beck, assisted by Miss Minnie Evans, Miss Annie Evans, Miss Grace Hilson, Miss Alice Beer and Miss Krumbein; apron booth, Mrs. E. Barry and Mrs. E. Arrowsmith; kimono booth, Mrs. I. Oliver and Mrs. Biglow; infants' apparel, Mrs. Stacey; bridge, Mrs. L. Kane and Mrs. F. West-dahl.

The Mystery gallery will be in charge of Miss Pennington, Miss Helen Purdie and Clair Reynolds. The booth of comforters and tufted rugs will be under the direction of Mrs. F. Moudry. Mrs. Charles Jackson, others have given their time, but will not be at any one particular table.

FRENCH TEACHER HELD FOR MILITARY DUTY

(Special Cable to the Tribune.)

PARIS, Nov. 9.—More has been heard of Robert Klein, the extraordinary young French teacher, who was befriended by Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, and who last summer created a sensation through being found in what was believed to be a case of bigamy on the grass in front of the Church of Saint No la Breteche, near Versailles.

At that time Klein stated that his condition was the consequence of his machinations of his family, who dragged him and left him there.

Now, it is learned, Klein is detained in a regiment at Bourges. Klein had been arrested for not having fulfilled his military duties.

YSAIE'S DAUGHTER WEBS.

(Special Cable to the Tribune.)

BRUSSELS, Nov. 9.—A large crowd of friends was present at the Church of the Trinity to witness the wedding of Miss Ysaie, daughter of M. Eugene Ysaie, the famous violinist, to Baron Coppens. The bride, who is a beautiful girl of seventeen, wore an empire dress of white liberty satin trimmed with lace, and a long train. The bridesmaids were the granddaughters of the sculptor, Constantin Meunier. They were accompanied by the bride's two younger brothers. The bridesmaids were dressed in white, their stix hats being wreathed with roses.

THANKSGIVING. TURKEYS HIGH

Great American Bird to be Expensive Luxury for Dinner Tables.

Thanksgiving turkey will be a positive luxury in Alameda county this year. And many a home will have to make merry with a leg of mutton or a home-raised duck in preference to the great American bird. This is because dealers in Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda have to pay at the way from 27 to 30 cents a pound wholesale for turkeys, and will retail them at 35 cents and more. And it isn't the dealers' fault either. All over the State a like condition exists.

A real famine is reported in the turkey market, attributed to the late spring, which was not conducive to early hatching. Hence the turkeys are not full grown and are very scarce.

PRICE RISING.

The biggest supply of turkeys is obtained from outside districts. A great many of the dealers buy their fowl direct from the turkey raisers, but this will not cut down prices this year. It looks on the other hand as if prices are rising. Turkey is now selling at 30 cents a pound and is very scarce at that. What will it cost in a few weeks, when Thanksgiving is here? Will the price increase in turn for the Christmas holidays?

"Yes," is the reply of Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley poultry men and butchers. "Turkeys will sell at from 30 to 35 and 37 cents a pound," said a dealer yesterday. "They will be considered cheap at that. I tell you the birds are costly and no mistake. Thirty-five cents will be the average price."

FEW FROM EAST.

It is customary to ship Eastern turkeys to California for the Thanksgiving trade. But this year conditions in the Middle West and Eastern States have been such that the turkey output is diminished, and besides the birds have not had time to become fully matured, and as a consequence the local exporters will have to look to nearby markets, and to cold storage plants for the fowl that is so popular on Thanksgiving day.

The extreme light weight of the fowls this year is another fact in connection with the turkey shortage. There will be few birds weighing fifteen and twenty pounds on the market. The eleven and twelve pound sizes will be the average. This lack of weight is attributed to late hatching, which has shortened the time for feeding grain.

KING OF BELGIANS GROWING RESTLESS

(Special Cable to the Tribune.)

PARIS, Nov. 9.—Leopold, King of the Belgians, is becoming more and more restless, and more ubiquitous. He has recently turned up at Clermont-Ferrand, at all unlikely places, and is manufacturing city in central France.

He rented a few months ago, a charming country house, not far from Paris, in a secluded spot, and sent a quantity of furniture thither from his principal palace at Laeken. But he could not stay there for any length of time; he found it necessary to go to Ostend and thence to Royat, taking the "cure" at each of these spas. Nobody but his most intimate entourage can follow the movements of King Leopold. He is fond of embarking suddenly on his yacht and crossing the channel to Dover. He often comes to London in motor, traveling as "Comte de Rastenstein," and is seen at quiet West End hotels and riding about in hansoms.

Although King Edward has entertained almost all the European rulers as state guests, King Leopold will probably never pay an official visit to London. He and King Peter of Serbia are barred from King Edward's friendship.

WORLD'S OLDEST PAPER IN PEKIN MODERNIZED

(Special Cable to the Tribune.)

PEKING, Nov. 9.—The Peking Gazette, the world's oldest newspaper, and China's official bulletin for memorials and edicts, has been superseded by a modern newspaper, which besides printing the memorials and edicts also will publish editorials. The first of the editorials significantly reviews the Japanese constitution, and otherwise the paper shows Japanese influences.

KAISER GREAT SPORTSMAN.

(Special Cable to the Tribune.)

BERLIN, Nov. 9.—Although he can shoot only with one arm, and a special gun has to be manufactured for him, the Kaiser is a great sportsman. From his shooting box at Rominten, which is one of the best-preserved estates in Germany, and where an intricate system of telephony has been erected between the various huts constructed for the purpose of watching the movements of the game, great stories come of his shooting exploits. One report says that the Kaiser shot fifty ducks in as many shots, and 150 birds in a quarter of an hour.

THANKSGIVING SPECIALS

Sale of Snowy Thanksgiving Linens

Flaxen Beauties at Prices That Will Make the Eyes of Economical Housewives Sparkle with Delight

GOBBLERS of bulging embonpoint will be the center pieces on millions of tables when the Thanksgiving feast is announced. The pleasure of their consumption will be delightfully heightened if the Linen and table appointments are fresh and spotless. If your Linen closet needs replenishing now is the time—and this is the place—to buy. Many a store that rates itself big would be glad to pay the prices we quote for this sale. Selling Linens is an exact science here. No guess work. It's the chronometer against the old hour glass. We know Linens—we know the Linens we sell from the raw flax to the finished fabrics. Not a single yard ever enters our stock that's not worthy of your fullest confidence. We buy from Irish, Scotch and French manufacturers with a world-wide reputation for the unvarying high excellence of their productions—and we buy in quantities that compel lowest prices. We sell at the smallest possible profit, and it is a recognized fact that our regular prices are always the lowest. On special occasions—like this—we cut our matchless regular prices to the quick and give very extraordinary bargains. The quotations that follow stand for unapproachable values in Linens that are as true as gold. But they merely hint at the splendid completeness of our stock and the saving possibilities. A personal visit will better demonstrate our Linen supremacy. COME.

ALL LINENS BOUGHT OF US WILL BE HEMMED FREE OF CHARGE.

$18.50 Suits for $12.50

STYLISH? Of course—in that they follow the latest breath of Fashion. But correct style isn't all that these handsome suits have to commend them. It's only one, and perhaps the least of their many good points. They are tailored as you would never expect suits at this price to be from fabrics of sterling quality, and will give that satisfaction which can only come from long wear and lasting good looks. The chief of our Suit Department is an expert. Verdancy and guess-work don't get such bargains as this. Just think of it—a six dollar saving on an eighteen dollar-and-fifty-cent investment. If you could get such big interest on all your money you would soon accumulate a snug fortune. Come promptly—these suits will be snapped up almost as quickly as you could say "Jack Robinson."

Jaunty Coat Suit

An entirely new and very handsome 35-inch model—beautifully tailored from striped Broadcloth of superior quality. Special Price $28.50

Military Suit

Smart 27-inch tight-fitting jacket—superbly tailored from black, green or blue Broadcloth. Special Price $33.50

Fluffy Ruffle Skirts at $3.95

No need for us to tell you how popular these skirts are—every woman knows that the "Fluffy Ruffle" craze is sweeping the entire country. The ones we advertise to-day are made of high-class black Panama cloth. They are cut extra full, and trimmed with bias flounces. If we hadn't got them at a bargain the price would have been at least a third more. They're almost sensationally cheap at $3.95

Astrakhan Jackets $33.50

Actually Worth $45.00 Each

THIS is one of the grandest bargains ever offered by our Fur Department. The jackets are made of whole skins and richly lined with satin. If bought in the regular way they couldn't be sold for a cent less than forty-five dollars. But we secured them at less than cost of production from a money-pressed manufacturer who was forced to sell to avert a worse disaster. We always share the money we save with our customers. Hence this sale of the best $45.00 Astrakhan jackets made at $33.50

OPENING HANDICAP WON BY JACK NUNNALLY

30-TO-1 SHOT GRABS RICH INAUGURAL EVENT BY NOSE FROM HILDRETH'S CRACK MONTGOMERY

ODDS ON FAVORITE OUTGAMED IN STRETCH

R. F. Carman's Fine Colt Acrobat Takes Third Prize.

By LEE DEMIER

With more than ten thousand handsomely attired persons filling every available space in the grand stand, betting-race and club-house lawn of this beautiful mac-cous, books doing business in the big betting arena, a grand array of thoroughbreds such as never before have raced on this coast, struggling for honors in the various events of an excellent card, and an ideal day, shudding warm rays of sunshine upon the whole enchanting scene, what gives promise of being the greatest race meeting ever held on the Pacific Slope, was ushered in at Williams Park, when the first clear notes of the bugle called the horses to the post in the opening race.

The big event, of course, was the Opening Handicap and it certainly was a daisy field which lined up before Starter Dwyer in this event. Sam Hildreth concluded to withdraw Uncle at the final moment and regardless of this fact the public sent the coin in on the remaining two of his entries, Montgomery and Vell. The Carman pair, Acrobat and Orimo, were next in demand. The unexpected happened when Jack Nunnally, the despatched outsider at 30 to 1, got up after a thrilling stretch drive to beat out Montgomery, the heavily played Eastern crack, by a short head. Acrobat, slow to get moving, was closing fast and got up in time to get the show. The winner ran out at the head of the stretch, but responded gamely under punishment and only got up in the last jump.

Martinas, Tobe Ramsey's sterling sprinter, earned the first pair of brackets of the season, by capturing the seven furlong dash from a fair field. "Reggie" Davis had the mount and avoided the early pace and when ready let his mount down and won going away. Phalanx made a nice showing and easily beat out the fast time Progress for the place. The latter evidently was not quite up to a race, and will do better next time out.

Elizabeth F., a gray mare of St. Maxim, was the first of the big Carman pair to win a victory in this season, and she easily took Orchan into camp in the second race. The latter was right there all the way, but tired the last part and the winner came on, and won going away by two lengths. Elizabeth F. was quoted at 9 to 2 and was the TRIBUNE's best bet, while started TRIMUNE patrons off to the good. Nabonassar at the pleasing odds of 25 to 1 was third.

Gray Durns put over his second winner when with the victor this season, brought El Bull home in front in the third race. Cello ran an impressive race and outgamed El Bull for the place.

Magazine, R. F. Carman's crack colt, won the two-year-old event as he pleased. Pajavola was second and Gene Russell third.

Brillar ran kindly today and just lasted long enough to beat out Fireball, which was finishing like a cyclone. Show honors went to The Mist.

As in past seasons the opening of the race course after an illness of several months calls forth much space from the many turf writers, and their enthusiasts at times carries them to such degrees that predictions that seem impossible are made, besides elaborations on the many high-class animals that are to grace the track and promise to sojourn with us, would tend the readers to believe that no other section would have much more than ordinary selling players to entertain their race patrons with, but this season seems an exception and the many bright articles and general boosting that has been going in in the big dailies seems to be a fact instead of fiction, and if any doubt exists that racing is on the wane in this State, all one has to do is to take an early train to Williams Park and see the many prominent railroaders out across the country was a secondary matter compared to the interest that was manifested as to who would be the lucky winner of the first stake of the season.

That California is going to have the greatest array of sports, can easily be forecasted by the array of high-class equine stars that have gathered here to compete for the many rich stakes. The excellent riding material that was on hand for the first day will be greatly augmented by the "stars" of the whip and spur as the season advances.

CLEAN OUT THE DISTURBERS. With the adverse legislation that has driven the ponies out of the Middle West practically but two racing centers are open for the patrons and lovers of the game—New York and California—and as the former has always taken the initia-live to put the sport on a plane that is above suspicion, the officials of racing in the latter State should not be lacking in doing their share to eliminate anything that tends to destroy confidence in the sport. One commendable act was the refusing of stall room to a few of those owners who are merely in the game to cause dissension by useless running up or horses, and as a good start has been made in this line, a suggestion might be made that will have the effect to keep a few of these notorious trouble makers quiet who are in our midst, that a warning to pick up their traps and get out means in future their presence will not be welcome in these parts. With the enough owners who have the best interests of the game at heart can be had without catering to that element who have been the real cause of so much legislation against racing in the many Eastern States.

BOOKMAKING GETTING ITS FINIS. Kentucky, the home of the thoroughbred, will abolish gambling and speculation will be carried on much after the fashion of the New York game of any and all the elements that have done so much to bring around these unsatisfactory conditions. A mere suspension is not enough, but a warning away for good and all times of the many cliques that upset calculations is the one and only remedy.

WILLIAMS PARK IMPROVEMENTS. Many changes have been made since the closing of racing in June, among them being the lengthening of the post and stand section remains where that game of any and all the elements that have done so much to bring around these unsatisfactory conditions. A mere suspension is not enough, but a warning away for good and all times of the many cliques that upset calculations is the one and only remedy.

As a good start has been made, it is up to the powers that make racing a permanent feature for California's balmy winter climate to attract lovers of clean sport from the East.

FIRST WEEK'S OFFERINGS. The program book for the first week's racing is made up of many rich events which should attract the class animals and with a fast track and excellent weather which looks probable, a fine six days' sport should be on tap. After such a gala day as Saturday, Monday's card looks insignificant, but the two purse events should make up for the otherwise indifferent card.

Tuesday, a six furlong handicap, Santa Rosa, value $500.

Wednesday, The Santa Cruz Handicap, with a value of $1000, at one mile and twenty yards.

Friday, a dash over the Futurity Course for $500. The Headsburg handicap, and to top off the big week, the Oakland handicap, at six and one-half furlongs, value $1500, should be all that could be wished for.

IN THE RING. Clearing House certificates was the real thing on the busy course.

One, Two, Three Martin was wondering why he couldn't get real money for that big draft he put up his hard-earned cash for at Walla Walla.

Nelson Jones, the biggest winner at Spokane, is ready to take care of the wants of his clients.

The ever affable Abe Bearwald, after a varied experience throughout the bushes, is back to the old stand with his usual "wood cheer" for every one.

Charley Quinn, the "Beau Brummel" of racing, is among the early arrivals to size up any "angles." This suave Southern gentleman, with the little neck twist, is one of California's regular winter patrons, a popular clubman and man about town.

Of course Broadway saw its popular townsmen, Jack Crane, and he in turn frequently saw the gentleman with the white aprons at the south end of the ring. A bumper and yell for the genial John.

Ed Soule, looking much better after his Eastern visit and fully recovered from the big dose of Gross and Logistilla, was among the big "uns."

Lobbyist Jack Sullivan cashed many bets during the afternoon and immediately developed his lung power. No one longer here when Jack sees his bird in front, his nearest neighbor will receive many jabs and I told you so's. J. S. is a prince of good fellows.

What would home be without Father? and what would Williams Park be without old "Pop" Daily? Seventy-three winters and summers and still asks Frank for a dollar on a 4 to 5 chance when the mob is trying to bet the "provider" bundreds.

After sinking his and Joe Rose's bank roll at New York, Frank Bokert went on for Levy and won $30,000. He will try to duplicate the trick at Oakland, even with his big handicap.

Joe Magee, right hand man for Joe Rose, will represent that clever book-maker at the park this season.

That big New York push that won such fabulous sums laying the embalmed kind are temporarily delayed by the tie-up in the big "burgh" and will busy themselves making mind bets on the Thaw case until the black cloud lifts.

"Hec" Comiskey just can't see how any sane man could keep away from California. Another season like 1906-07 and "Hec" threatens to take a suite at the Fairmont.

The "Tokio Club," famed for its ability to push "Old Kentucky Whisky," are for opening day? The great parade has

SAY HE TAPPED CASH REGISTER

Restaurant Employee Charged With Taking Money and Pipes From Store

Detective McSorley and Policeman George D. Collins last night arrested Henry Burmeister an employee of the Owens and Starr restaurant at 488 Twelfth street for robbing the cash register of Fred Howard's cigar stand at two o'clock Saturday morning. November 2 last. Burmeister has been looked for by the police for a whole week but kept well hidden until last night.

Burmeister is described by the police as a hanger on around cigar stores and an unclean looking fellow. He is 35 years of age, of medium build, and is of the Owens and Starr restaurant. He was seen on Saturday morning at a table in the restaurant, and was taken into custody by the police. He was found with a cash register and a pipe. He was taken to the police station and is now in custody.

WILL TAKE COMMAND OF PRESIDENT'S YACHT

(Special to the Tribune.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—A California Lieutenant Commander Carl T. Vogelsang of the United States navy has been appointed to command the cruiser yacht Mayflower. Commander Vogelsang is a brother of Arthur Vogelsang of this city and Chief Deputy Fish Commissioner. It is said he owes the honor conferred upon him to his splendid record as a naval officer. President Roosevelt during the latter's trip to Panama last fall.

Vogelsang was the first navigator of the battleship Louisiana, on which the President made the journey, and the main reason why he handled the ship quickly caught the attention of the chief executive.

Commander Vogelsang was appointed to the naval academy from California in 1888 and obtained his present rank in July 1906. He made his reputation as a turret officer in the Atlantic station when he was in command of the forward thirteen inch turret on the Wisconsin. The score made by him and his crew broke all records of the navy and has never been equalled. They are the only men in the navy who have won a battle in the same gun and nearly the same crew the following year. The gun made thirty-two hits out of a possible thirty-six and 130 shots per minute with 141 hits per minute.

POLICE REJOICE IN FOOTBALL RESULT

Ever since the police station breathed more freely last night when the result of the big California Stanford football game was announced. Not that any of the blue coats or blue coated officials have any malice to the Berkeley gladiators. They are patriots at all times and would prefer to see the bird of victory perch upon the blue and gold banner every time. But there are compensations.

A victory for California would no doubt have meant busy times at the police station last night. Last year when Stanford played at Berkeley, and when the local police found it necessary to run in fifteen obstreperous situations. They started to come after midnight and every few minutes the wagon was sent out for mischief makers.

Last night things were much quieter. The students did not take the whole-souled delight in disturbing the peace as has been the case heretofore. But if the California team had turned the trick then in the world the big sergeants' things would have been hot for the police.

SAWS EMPLOYEE DIDN'T TURN IN COLLECTIONS

Andrew Lehmann employed by H. W. Norman who deals in pumps and windmills at 833 San Pablo avenue was arrested last evening by Detective McSorley and charged with the misdemeanor of not turning in collections. The last August Lehmann collected a bill for $10 for him and failed to return the money.

When Lehmann was arrested last night he gave Norman $10 to square the account, but his former employer not satisfied with this refused to drop the complaint.

HOTEL BURNS; WOMEN JAILED

Owners Charged With Setting Fire to Hostelry at Guerneville.

(Special to the Tribune.)
SANTA ROSA, Nov. 9.—The burning of the Hotel Slade at Guerneville on Thursday night has been followed by the arrest of Mrs. Margaret Watson and Mrs. Grace Blier, long residents of Guerneville but now having homes in San Francisco, on charges of arson. The two women were the owners of the hotel.

While the authorities were investigating the fire Mrs. Watson boarded a train for San Francisco. She was followed and taken from the train by Deputy Sheriffs Reynolds and Ramsey to the county jail. The furniture in the hotel was insured, but the agent of the insurance company has refused to pay the loss.

Mrs. Blier was brought from Guerneville in custody of Sheriff Smith and District Attorney Lea. The women have retained counsel and on his advice refuse to discuss the charges against them.

(Special to the Tribune.)
SANTA ROSA, Nov. 9.—Conductor Al Platt of the Northwestern Pacific railroad narrowly escaped being killed last night when he was thrown from the train. He was sitting in his caboose when the door opened. As the train was freight, rounded a curve the sudden jerk threw the conductor out of the door and down an embankment. He was not hurt.

GIRL TAKES OWN LIFE AS HER MOTHER DIES

(Special to the Tribune.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—While her mother, whose constant attendant and companion she had been for years, lay dying today in their apartment in Revere Hill Helen Schwab a beautiful girl of 23 years, driven insane by the thought of her loss ran to the roof of the six-story building drank carbolic acid and then leaped down the airshaft and was crushed to death. As the body was carried into the sick room the nurse closed the mother's eyes for the last time.

As the girl had wished, she and her mother will not be separated even in death but will be in the same grave.

I must say that I am pleased with your treatment. After three weeks' use of Electro-Vigor I have no digestive trouble, sleep better and am not bothered with indigestion. Hobart Mills Cal.

For the treatment of female complaints your methods of using electricity is certainly far ahead of the ordinary means used by doctors—only too frequently do physicians urge upon their patients the use of operations which could be easily avoided by the use of Electro-Vigor. MAUDE FEALY OPENS AT THE MACDONOUGH

Oakland Orpheum Has Many New Features-- Grand Opera at Ye Liberty.

John Cort, the Western theatrical manager, it seems discovered a "find" when he secured the great English comedy-drama, "The Stronger Sex," for Maude Fealy's use on her starring tour under his management this season. Besides having a whole lot of other things to look after Mr. Cort takes time now and then to dabble a little in theatricals and in addition to Miss Fealy, who is distinctively the youngest and one of the most talented dramatic stars in this country, he controls such well-known attractions as Max Kinnaman, who made a hit in "The Royal Box" last season; Florence Roberts, whom he has recently transferred to another prominent manager under an arrangement by which he don't lose; Sara Truax, who should be a great dramatic star because she can act and act well; "The Alaskan," the gold mine opera. Mme. Emma Calve, who is under his direction, will this season charm Mexico with her wonderful voice, and a mere bagatelle of fifteen or twenty minutes in the West under his immediate direction—so it seems Manager Cort is a very busy man, though strange to say he occasionally finds time to "grab" at a sandwich while on a flying trip to his home in Seattle to look after his real estate interests there.

In this time of "hustle" and "hurrah" it is evident the theatrical man has something to do. Anyhow John Cort don't sleep on the way from the hotel to his office, nor does he lose any time promoting around a billiard table or spending any of his idle moments playing mummy peg in the back yard of his country residence way out West in the land of fresh air and sunsets. Miss Fealy will present "The Stronger Sex" at the Macdonough, two performances only—this afternoon and tonight.

"CHECKERS." which made its initial bow to this city last season, will make its second courtship at the Macdonough for one week, commencing tomorrow night. This is the play of which Dan Smith, of the New York Herald wrote: "Checkers" is the greatest show that ever struck New York." The interesting fact that this racing comedy is now playing its fifth season is good proof of the strong popularity it has won from the people wherever it has been. The story has been heard so many times during "Checkers" former visits there is no need to tell it all here again. The playhouse is the place to listen to its always fresh tale of love and luck. And as the management of the company has won a good reputation for keeping most of the old, well-trained group of actors intact and supplying worthy substitutes for those whose wandering natures tire of one play and seek another, players can confidently count on a happy unfolding of Checkers' adventures once more.

Most of the old members are numbered among the cast promised for this season. There is Hans Robert, who for two seasons has played the title role with such humor and zest as to warrant one's looking forward to a like rendition of the part during the coming engagement of "Checkers."

Among the others in the cast is the sprightly Dave Graham, who since the curtain rose on the play for the first time five years ago, has portrayed "Fish" Miller with all the humorous and vivacious character of a race track tout one could expect.

Among the rest who have been here before are Joe Wilkes, who plays the irascible old banker Barlow; Lydia Dickson, who portrays the laughable Arkansas chore girl with all the genuine humor which might be looked for in the niece of Frank Daniels; and there is Pauline Eberhard, who still plays both the unctious and high tempered parts of Aunt Deb with equal skill. Robert Craig is the irresistible rube. Bud Brockmridge, and Clara Armstrong, the always smartly dressed and clever chum of Bert, are still with the company.

ORPHEUM.

Attractive at every point and replete with novel features of the very highest class, the big new bill of vaudeville which goes on at the Orpheum this afternoon, is calculated to draw a succession of packed houses to the Twelfth-street theater, continuing the record of success which the Orpheum has made since its opening a month ago.

The Four Golden Graces, an artistic novelty, imported from Germany by the Orpheum Company, has the place of honor at the head of the program. The Four Golden Graces are represented by four beautiful young women who were selected by a master in the art of posing and trained by him for this performance.

ance. The girls are skilled models and they are said to give a performance artistic in every way, and most pleasing to the eye. They represent such classic figures as Venus, Psyche, Amor, and other characters from ancient mythology. The act is likely to be a revelation to Oakland theatergoers and prove one of the big magnets on the Orpheum stage during the coming week.

"Steps and Stunts" is the title given to the act of Harry Laddell and Rosa Crouch. They are dancers of high degree, and comedians also of merit.

Two rollicking comedians, dancers and singers of the genuine "coon" variety, Murphy and Francis, will provide unlimited merriment with their dancing, comedy and singing, which they call "Going to the Ball." They indulge in some "real coon habits." Altogether they are guaranteed to provide a kale of safety.

Massie O'Connor, the illusionist from Europe, is one of the novelties on the bill. His work is said to be remarkable both for its cleverness and to include some feats which no other illusionist in the world provides.

Lucy and Lucier, who have been a big hit this week in their eccentric sketch wherein Lucier figures as a messenger boy and his compatriot, Mrs. Lucier, as a pretty actress and singer, will be one of the acts held over from the current week.

Minnie Seligman and William Bramwell, the dramatic stars, whose comedy sketch, "A Dakota Widow," has pleased the crowds, will also be retained.

Blim, Bonny, Bert, the musicians from Europe, and Lillian Tye, the real Irish girl, with the new Orpheum pictures, will round out the program.

Nance O'Neil is coming to the Orpheum next Sunday afternoon.

GRAND OPERA SEASON.

The second season of grand opera at Ye Liberty Playhouse will be inaugurated this Monday evening with the finest cast that has ever appeared on the coast in Donizetti's masterpiece, "Lucia di Lamermoor," which is a musical setting of Sir Walter Scott's great novel, "The Bride of Lamermoor."

The Milan Opera Company consists of over one hundred artists and there are four casts of principals, but in order to make this short season in Oakland a notable one, impresario Lombardi and his representative, Will L. Greenbaum, has induced some of the star singers to appear in the minor roles Monday evening, so as to give extraordinary strength to the performance. Olinto Lombardi, one of the greatest basses on the operatic stage, has consented to sing the role of Raymond for this one night, and Signor Ballestr, a leading tenor, will sing the small part of Arturo, just to make the popular sextette the most stunning thing in a musical way that Oakland has ever heard. Pimmazzoni, the baritone who made such a sensational hit the opening night in San Francisco, will sing the role of Sir Henry Ashton, and Mme. Adeline Papadano, one of the most marvelous sopranos in the world, will sing the title role.

The chorus will number forty, and the orchestra about the same. There are three splendid conductors with the organization, the principal one being Agide Jacchia, who, although under the age of thirty, has been assistant to Mascagni for a number of years and has conducted in some of the leading opera houses of Europe.

Tuesday night "La Boheme" will be the welcome offering, and this tale of life among the artists of Paris is one that appeals strongly to all hearts, and the music possesses a thrill that entrances everyone and of which one grows fonder at every hearing.

Signorina Lina Bertozzi, a most sympathetic young singer with a deep soprano voice of wonderful beauty, will sing the role of the unhappy Mimmi, and a better interpretation of the difficult part has never been given in this country. Both as an actress and singer Signorina Bertozzi belongs in the first rank. In "Mignon" all the critics agreed that she gave the best performance of the beautiful part ever seen in San Francisco and there have been many Mignons appear there.

The part of the mischievous coquette, "Musette," will be sung by Ester Ferrabini, one of the particularly bright stars of the company, and the most beautiful La Tosca ever seen on the Italian stage. She is a young woman of but twenty-two years, and wonderfully beautiful, with a voice that is truly a "gift of God." Last year, Signorina Ferrabini toured as soloist with the great Leoncavallo.

The tenor role Rodolfo will be sung by a new arrival from Italy, Signor Marcello, who will make his debut with this company. Marcello will be played by Signor Arcangelo, a baritone of great renown who is famous in Italy for his lingo in Verdi's "Otello," and whose Scarpia in "La Tosca" was one of the great successes of the San Francisco and Los Angeles seasons. Olinto Lombardi will be Coline, and we shall hear the "Farewell to the Coast" sung in perfect style.

Wednesday afternoon the dramatic singers of the company will give "Il Trovatore," the magnificent tenor, Chev. Francesco Signorini, singing the part of Manrico, and Marie Gonzales, the beautiful Spanish prima donna, appearing as Leonore. Pimmazzoni will be the Count di Luna.

Wednesday night another all-star cast will appear in Ambrose Thomas' romantic opera "Mignon." Madame Padovani will sing the brilliant coloratura role of Felice, the actress, the dainty Bortozzi will be Mignon, the splendid tenor Angelo will be Wilhelmmeister, and the magnificent basso Paolo Wulmann, from the Royal Opera at Covent Garden, London, will sing the difficult role of Lothario. Signor Bergami, one of the finest buffo-basses in the world, will appear in the humorous role of Laertes.

The orchestration of "Mignon" is exceptionally brilliant and there are a number of harp solos in the work. Maestro Jacchia will give a brilliant interpretation of this example of French orchestral coloring.

Notwithstanding the enormous expense of bringing such an organization here, coupled with the expense of laying off the entire Bishop Stock Company at full pay, the prices asked for this big attraction are no higher than asked for the ordinary road company, the best seats being $2.00 and the lowest $1.00, and all seats at "Ye Liberty" are good, especially for opera.

Oakland is certainly large enough now to warrant an annual season of grand opera, and it is to be hoped that our music lovers will turn out "en masse" and give the greatest encouragement and support to this effort on the part of Managers Bishop and Greenbaum to bring the best, the very best, to our progressive and growing city.

There has been a number of demands for Verdi's setting of Shakespeare's "Othello," and perhaps a special matinee will be arranged for that purpose. It all depends on the encouragement received for the regular performances, which are limited to four.

CALVE COMING.

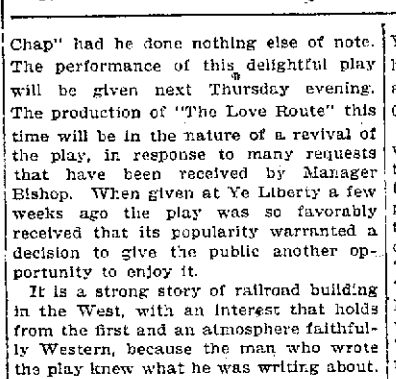

Manager Will Greenbaum announces that out of the forty concerts that Mile. Emma Calve is to give this year, he has been fortunate enough to secure three, paying the highest price ever paid in this country for the services of a singer in concert. One of these concerts he promises will be given in Oakland, by arrangement with H. W. Bishop. Full particulars announced shortly.

YE LIBERTY.

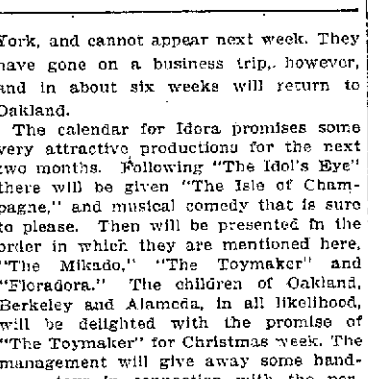

With three nights to be given next week to the Milan Grand Opera Company, the Bishop players have ready for the completion of the week at Ye Liberty an excellent production of "The Love Route" by Edward Fyffe, an author whose claim to distinction as a dramatist, could safely rest upon his work in "The Prince

ROSA CROUCH AT THE OAKLAND ORPHEUM

Chap" had he done nothing else of note. The performance of this delightful play will be given next Thursday evening. The production of "The Love Route" this time will be in the nature of a revival of the play, in response to many requests that have been received by Manager Bishop. When given at Ye Liberty a few weeks ago the play was so favorably received that its popularity warranted a decision to give the public another opportunity to enjoy it.

It is a strong story of railroad building in the West, with an interest that holds from the first and an atmosphere faithfully Western, because the man who wrote the play knew what he was writing about. The first act opens in the New York office of the T. M. & N. Railroad, where the directors are meeting with the president of the company to consider the latter's plan to construct a new branch of the road out in Texas. For years the company has been battling in the courts to establish its right of way. It has succeeded with the exception of one ranch, and the president has decided to use the right given him by law and force his will across this one piece of property. The ranch in question is owned by a young woman named Allene Houston (Izetta Jewel in the play) who has appeared at the directors' meeting, refused $50,000 for the privilege of crossing her land and defied the railroad company to lay a tie within the boundaries of her ranch. And so the play goes on.

The cast will be exactly that which appeared in the play at the recent production. The players, as they were assigned then, gave satisfaction, and Manager Bishop has given them the same parts for this production. Henry Shumer will take the role of the railroad president, and into it he should put the right spirit.

Prominent also in the cast will be seen George Cooper, Robert Harrison, George Friend, George P. Webster, Jack Sheehan, E. L. Bennison, Walter Catlett, Raymond Walburn, George Rand and Hazel Kellogg.

The Bishop players are now in preparation for a production of "In the White Horse Tavern" during Thanksgiving week.

IDORA PARK.

Of interest to the patrons of Idora Park is the announcement that "The Idol's Eye" will be presented next week, instead of "The Circus Girl." This enjoyable comic opera will be produced on an elaborate scale and with practically the same cast that made it such a success when it was presented at the park theater about a year ago.

The story of "The Idol's Eye" is pretty generally known. For cleverness and wealth of imagination it surpasses that of any other comic opera given to the public within the last decade. The piece is full of fun and set to exquisite music. The songs will be well sung by the principals of the company, and the striking drills will be spiritedly executed by the chorus.

"The Idol's Eye" gives Ferris Hartman opportunity for his best work, and at the same time it distributes the entertainment among the other members of the company in such a way that it cannot be characterized as "a one man's show." In the cast besides Hartman will be Sybil Pace, Doris Goodwin, Bernice Holmes, Muggins Davies, Wallace Brownlow, Walter De Leon, Joseph Foxworthy, George Foutney, Fred Kavanaugh and other popular members of the company.

Thomas Perse and Edith Mason, his wife, have been suddenly called to New Warren and Faust will offer a comedy acrobatic dancing and singing act that will cause many a laugh.

NOVELTY THEATER.

The announcements for the Novelty Theater, on Broadway, for next week contain some of the best known names in the vaudeville field, and the make-up of the program looks like it should be a show well worth the price of admission charged. The big feature of the bill will be The Georgians, an European eccentric act that has the reputation of being the funniest act in vaudeville. Their engagement here at the Novelty is for one week only. Another act on next week's bill that is a big headliner is that of The Four Franks, presenting a musical mixup that has won for them a big reputation and is entitled "A Mixed Affair." It is in reality a miniature musical comedy interpreted by four clever people, taking up twenty minutes, all of which is enlivened with laughs fast and furious. It is an act that will be much talked about next week. The Flood sisters are to offer a new novelty act, something seldom seen done by women. It is a revolving ball and unsupported ladder act that is sure to attract more than passing notice. They also introduce in the act some novelty juggling and a trick dog that is said to be the cutest thing ever. Mabel Herbert, a singing and dancing soubrette, who was last seen here with "The Prince of Placen" company, will

FRICK SONG RECITAL

Decided interest is being manifested in the approaching Oakland recital of the American baritone, Romeo Frick, to be given at Ebell Hall, Monday evening, November 25.

Frick, who is a singer of national reputation, was accorded an ovation in Los Angeles last week by the Gamut club, for his spirited singing of the Toreador song. He was an honored guest of the club, with Signori Lombardi, Wulman and Pacini of the Milan Opera Company.

Full particulars of the Frick recital will be given later.

He will be presented by the Great Western Musical Bureau of Los Angeles, Portland and Salt Lake City.

OUTFIT COSTS FORTUNE

Even Gladys Vanderbilt Doesn't Spend as Much on Wedding Finery as Marie Bonaparte.

(Special Cable to the Tribune.)

PARIS, Nov. 9.—At the present moment the topic of conversation in all the Paris drawing rooms is the coming marriage of Princess Marie Bonaparte to Prince George of Greece and her magnificent trousseau.

Not only is this the most expensive trousseau on record for the future queen of Greece, it is also the most magnificent, and shows that the princess is most daring in wearing the things she likes, and not the things that are the fashion. It is understood that the bride outfit will cost over $1,500,000 francs.

The princess has decided that her trousseau should not be shown to the public, and it is very difficult to get a glimpse of the dresses, but I have been permitted to inspect some of the garments.

REST IN EMPIRE GOWN.

Princess Marie looks best in empire and princess dresses, as she is tall and slender and a really beautiful woman and she has ordered several of them. To accentuate the slenderness and to acquire the "line" which is the most chic of the hour, she was treated with being compelled to renounce all undergarments.

The princess has solved this weighty question very fully, and with her usual independence has launched a new style.

This consists of the simplest slip imaginable, made in soft silk and lace. These garments must mould to the figure and not a crease or fold is allowed. Tight over the bust and hips, they become fuller toward the knees and end over the ankles in a mass of full ruffles of fine embroidery and lace. Each of these slips will cost five hundred francs, ($100).

ADORES LACE: HAS PLenty.

Princess Marie adores lace and there is a plenitude used for her trousseau. For some of her evening gowns she has chosen lace combined with Valenciennes lace and tiny ruffles of Valenciennes are used.

One garment in particular is wonderfully pretty. It is made in the finest colored silk lawn and is finished off at the hem with a deep orange Valenciennes. The upper part is a decollete of Valenciennes and below this there are incrustations of Valenciennes. A large ribbon passed through a button gives an empire effect.

One feature of the trousseau is that the princess has discarded altogether the "cache-corset" the slips taking their place. The cost of the undergarments alone in Princess Marie's trousseau is $300,000 francs ($60,000).

SUSPECT AMERICANS OF STEALING RARE OLD
CURIOS FROM LIBRARY

(BY PAUL VILLIERS.)

PARIS, Nov. 9.—Another sensation relating to the theft of artistic treasures has burst upon Paris, but especially on St. Germain-en-Laye, the beautiful little town some miles off, where it has taken place.

In the municipal library, contained in what was formerly the royal castle, there are a large number of the most valuable illuminated manuscripts of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries. Two of these manuscripts, the "Statutes of the Royal Order of St. Michael" and a "Book of Hours," adorned with sixty-five beautiful miniatures, have mysteriously disappeared as well as some fifty plates of royal palaces and two modern books dealing with decorative art. There are about 15,000 books in the library of St. Germain.

HID MANUSCRIPTS.

The curator left on December 1 for his holiday returning on October 1. Knowing the value of the two manuscripts in question, he wrapped them up in newspapers before going away and hid them behind some large folios of little value.

His astonishment was great on his return to find that they were gone, and only the empty newspapers were left. The curator at once reported the matter to the police.

The curator of the sixteenth century "Statutes" is of the sixteenth century and consists of sixty sheets of parchment with miniatures. The binding is of the epoch, and represents the pyramid, which was stamped on all the books of the Cardinal of Lorraine, Archbishop of Rheims, with his motto, "Te stante, vincit."

VALUABLE MINIATURES.

Its value lay entirely in miniatures, one of which represents Henry II presiding over a chapter of the Order of St. Michael, and includes eighteen figures.

The other shows the Archangel Michael killing the dragon with the famous banner of Mount St. Michael, which was the seal of the order, founded by Louis VII, in the background.

The second manuscript, the "Book of Hours," is a gem of the sixteenth century, and is a masterpiece of the art of the book. It contains ninety-two pages of parchment, and its sixty-five fifteenth century miniatures are extremely beautiful.

Some books of hours of this period, and there are a few in existence, have been sold in London during late years for fabulous prices. The police authorities have reason to believe that the stolen works have been taken to America, though at present they refuse to say why they are of this opinion.

The proposal of M. Dujardin-Beauregard to put the chief masterpieces in the Louvre under glass cases is being put into operation. "La Joconde" or Leonardo da Vinci, one of the supreme treasures of the Louvre, is now covered with glass to protect it from vandals and fools, and other famous pictures are to be treated in the same way as quickly as possible.

The experiment, however, is not regarded favorably by the public, and there already a great deal of complaint that the glass cases cause a disagreeable shimmer on the picture, which renders it difficult to examine it.

On the other hand, it is pointed out by many competent people that if any idiot

Pius X Names Prominent Reactionary to Head
Archbishopric of Vignon.

(BY MARQUIS DE CASTELLANE.)

PARIS, Nov. 9.—Pope Pius X has just appointed to the Archbishopric of Vignon a provincial, who is a man of great merit. Mgr. Latty, the former bishop of Chalons, will be successful in the ancient city of the popes, for he has become one of the prominent of the Reactionaries.

He was at the beginning of his career one of the bishops of liberal tendencies who were hostile to the monks, but the Separation law has converted him. Also Mgr. Latty is one of the rare bishops who write their pastorals in French. He has this originality, too, that he does not always write these documents on religious questions, but lately penned a very fine pastoral against alcoholism.

Lord Carrington Grants Small Holdings on His Estate and Marquis
Does Better.

(BY PAUL LAMBETH.)

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Lord Carrington has already set an example to his fellow peers by granting small holdings on his estates to men who he supposes shall marry "within a reasonable time."

In this matter he has forestalled some of the Radical Socialists, and he is regarded as a man of very sincere purpose.

But the Marquis of Northampton has "gone one better." He is now anxious to let his magnificent estate, Castle Ashby, which was built in Elizabeth's days and much improved in 1824, for a short lease, for the sole purpose of obtaining more money for improving the condition of the masses.

The Marquis is a man with a strong black beard and swarthy skin and has always been "the people's friend."

BLUNT AND OUTSPOKEN

This nobleman is blunt and outspoken, and usually says the wrong thing at the right time at public meetings, but he is worshipped by his tenants and is something of a Socialist in the best sense of the term. His greatest hobby is motoring, and at the coming of age of his son, Lord Compton, a year ago, the motor car races were the feature of the week's festivities.

The money which the Marquis will receive from the lease of his house, provided he manages to let it, he will devote entirely to the better housing of the poor in his district.

Editing the Queen's Letters

LONDON, Nov. 9.—Lord Escher, who is editing Queen Victoria's letters was a close favorite of the late monarch, for he was deputy governor of Windsor Castle.

He is the head of the Escher family, and was for some years in parliament as member for Penryn and Falmouth, and during that time he was also private secretary to Lord Hartington. He married a Belgian lady, Miss Elouan Van de Weyer, the daughter of a former Belgian minister to St. James'. Both are keenly devoted to literature and the drama, and both write a good deal. Lady Escher being a poet of no mean distinction. At their house in Mayfair—once the scene of a bomb explosion, by the way—may usually be seen some of the most distinguished people in politics and diplomacy.

Lord Escher's work in connection with the army commission is too recent to need more than passing mention.

Bluntness and Wit of Norwegian Minister to Court of St. James Tickles the King of England and Pleases Queen Alexandra

(BY PAUL LAMBETH.)

LONDON, Nov. 9.—King Edward has taken an immense liking for Dr. Nansen, the Norwegian Minister, who has been staying with the King at Balmoral. Dr. Nansen's bluntness and simplicity and his very much to the point remarks tickle His Majesty almost as much as the valet's conversation of his great favorite, M. de Soveral, the Portuguese Minister.

The Queen too was charmed with Dr. Nansen, with whom she is able to converse freely in her native tongue, Danish, and both the King and Queen have extended to Dr. Nansen a cordial invitation to visit them at Sandringham after the German Emperor's State visit to Windsor.

Dr. Nansen disposes top hats and frock coats and any kind of smart attire. At Sandringham he will be able to indulge his taste for rough knickerbockers, flannel shirts and leggings, for in this private country house every guest can dress just as he or she chooses.

After a rather long lapse the American sporting world is again to be fore in London. The wrestling boom will be at its height a few days hence, and all the champions who express their desire to meet Hackenschmidt, the Russian Lion, will be needed out in a tournament.

Among these the American Joe Rogers, who is staying at the Adelphi Hotel, appears to have a very good chance. Joe is trying to reduce his weight, which is 280 pounds, to 250 pounds, which is quite heavy enough. He is only twenty-eight years of age, and has made a great impression on the experts in town. Joe has been appearing at the music halls, but the great test will come on November 13, when the final wrestling tournament will probably take place at the Albert Hall.

The winner of the tournament will then really meet Hackenschmidt. There have been so many failures in the wrestling world that music hall managers are in despair, but it seems that Joe Rogers really means business. In another branch of sport Londoners have welcomed back J. H. Martin, the American roofer, who has had such a splendid season abroad that he has bought himself a high-powered motor car. He intends to divide his winter between England and Switzerland.

GODFATHER'S GIFT.

The Earl of Rosbery has sent a second godfather's gift of a beautiful silver cup to the Queen and her daughter, Lady Mary. The American roofer, who has had such a splendid season abroad that he has bought himself a high-powered motor car. He intends to divide his winter between England and Switzerland.

There is an old legend in the Monson family that every heir who was not called John, without any other addition, would never inherit the title. When, in addition to the surprise of the whole family, Lady Monson presented her husband with a son and heir a year ago and Lord

Rosbery expressed a desire to act as godfather, a great difficulty arose, but Lady Monson, with characteristic American dash, said she cared nothing for legends, and so the child received the name of John Rosbery.

Time alone will tell the legend out. Meanwhile Lord Monson is almost as devoted to his stepdaughter by Mrs. Tupper as to his own children. A clever girl of eleven, as he is to John Rosbery.

SECRET HISTORY OF VATICAN REVEALED

ROME, Nov. 9.—The Vatican is perturbed over the revelation of a page of secret history. This is the publication of a pamphlet detailing a very radical scheme of reform to the Church, written some sixty years ago by Cardinal Saisi, Leo XIII, when a young man, was the prototype of the scheme, which after his death, in 1903, passed into the Vatican library.

The grandnephew of Cardinal Saisi, who had advanced views, and had always wished to publish the scheme, but had been unable to consult the original document in the secret archives of the Vatican. He made a copy of the copy, which has been published in defiance of the prohibition of the Vatican censor.

The book raised a storm in ecclesiastical circles.

Mrs. Julia Graham Is in Great Agony From Accident.

BERKELEY, Nov. 9.—Word was received here yesterday afternoon by A. H. Broad, supervising architect of the school department, that his daughter, Mrs. Julia Graham, a recent bride, was so badly burned by muriatic acid that her leg may have to be amputated.

The accident happened in Los Angeles, where Mrs. Graham is visiting friends. She bought the acid at the drug store, and in alighting from a car the bottle was broken, the contents spilling over her limbs. She did not notice this immediately, but as soon as she discovered that the acid was eating her flesh, she hurried to her friends in great pain. A doctor was called and upon examination found that she had been so severely burned that the leg might have to be amputated in order to check blood poison.

MAY SAVE MEMBER.

Miss Ursula Broad left this morning for the bedside of her sister. Broad says that the latest reports seem to indicate that the limb will be saved.

About a year ago Mrs. Graham ran away and married young Graham, who conducted the luncheon, a cleaning establishment. Her father was very angry at the time, but finally his anger cooled. Six months after, young Graham left the city with many bills behind him and nothing has been heard of him since.

ALAMEDA, Nov. 9.—The action of the five councilmen at the meeting last night in passing a measure agreeing to purchase for park purposes the James Dunn and Taylor tracts at the west end has been the sensation of today, and already there is talk of using the recall on those councilmen who voted for the proposition. There is a sentiment in some quarters against the land being purchased, due, it is alleged, to the announcement that it could have been secured in June for $50,000, while it is now valued at $55,000 by the owners.

FORMER OPTION.

Captain J. S. Hanley stated that he had an option on the land owned by James Dunn for $5,000. It is stated that there has never been any question as to the value of the Taylor tract, as it has always been held at $50,000. The total cost of the land now is $115,000. Rather, that is the price that is asked, but the motion has to be passed in regular session at a meeting on Monday, November 18th.

BERKELEY, Nov. 9.—Joe Appleburn, a junk dealer at 217 Third street, Oakland, has applied to the police department for redress from a number of students alleged to belong to the Sigma Chi fraternity at 1812 Durant street. Appleburn told the police that while he left his horse standing near the fraternity building this afternoon, the students cut the harness from the animal. When he undertook to tie a protest within the doors of the club house a bucket of water was thrown on him from one of the windows of the second floor. The junk man decried in his efforts and sought the police, but as he could give no definite description of any of his alleged tormentors no arrests were made.

The contest is for the most popular young lady of the college city and all signs point to its being a great success. Much enthusiasm was shown last night and a large crowd was in attendance.

FIGHT FOR FIRST.

The fight for first place centers between Miss Christine McLellan, of the Children of Mary booth, and Miss Alice Gallagher. Both ladies are popular and a strenuous fight is being made for them by their many friends. As yet there is little to pick between them, but the chances seem to favor Miss McLellan and she will probably win out. Miss McLellan, in addition to being a favorite of the college city and all signs point to its being a great success. Much enthusiasm was shown last night and a large crowd was in attendance.

Other candidates for the honor are Miss Olive Hampton, Miss Mabel Rose, Miss Edna Zeit, Miss Crood and Miss Rooney. The result will not be decided until Monday.

HOW THEY VOTED.

Those who voted for the purchase of the two tracts are Councilmen Geo. Loop, Probst, Fisher and Magarinos. Those who were opposed to the purchase of the land were Councilmen Bullock, Nov, Christensen and Brown.

BROWN DEFEATED.

Councilman Brown wanted the question of purchase left open for another meeting, but the motion was defeated and now the Council is divided into two factions, one headed by the Mayor and opposed to the purchase of the Dunn and Taylor tracts, and the other headed by President Loop which has pledged itself to buy the two tracts.

Some of those opposed to the Dunn tract are satisfied with the Taylor tract. They advocate the purchase of the Taylor tract at the west end and the Thompson tract at High street, in the east end.

Fined $50; Can't Find Anyone to Accept Payment

ALAMEDA, Nov. 9.—City Treasurer Oswald Lubbock is one of the few men in Alameda who at present will refuse $50 in coin when it is offered him.

This morning John Matthews, who had been fined $50 by the City Commission for being intoxicated while on duty, offered the amount to the City Treasurer. Lubbock refused the money because he had no official notice of the fine having been levied. He also declared the money should go into the police fund and he had no knowledge of the fund being in existence.

Until some action is taken Matthews keeps his money and declares he will put the sum in circulation to keep the city from suffering from any stringency in the money market.

FAVORS CONSOLIDATION UNDER BOROUGH SYSTEM ONLY

Conference Committeeman Thinks if San Francisco Is Included, Good Government Would Result Forever to City Across Bay.

BERKELEY, Nov. 9.—Consolidation continues to be the chief topic of discussion among citizens of Berkeley. At the meeting of the conference committee of the Improvement Clubs held last night at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, the talk of consolidation took a different form. It was the consensus of opinion that consolidation would be a benefit to the city and would reduce taxes, but that this consolidation should include all the cities about the bay; in fact they thought that

A Greater San Francisco was wanted. Victor Robertson in speaking of the matter said:

"I agree with the proposers of consolidation that our taxes should be lowered and that this would bring it about, but at the same time I think that the cities on this side of the bay should unite with San Francisco under the borough system of government; any way we would not consent with a union with Oakland unless it be under a borough system of government."

The majority of the people of Berkeley have their business interests in San Francisco, so therefore it seems only fair that they should have a vote in the affairs of the city across the bay. Why, I know any number of men that moved back to San Francisco in order to get a vote in the recent election. A union of Oakland, Berkeley and Alameda with San Francisco would assure good government to San Francisco forever."

It is likely that the conference committee will take this matter up at once.

RIVAL SORORITY
GIRLS TRY SPYING

Discovered in Attempt to Learn
Secrets of Another School Organization.

ALAMEDA, Nov. 9.—A very unusual condition was brought to light Friday night when two sorority girls of the Alameda High School were discovered in an attempt to spy on the secret rites of their rival sorority during an initiation in the basement of one of the girls' homes. No outside guard has ever been considered necessary and as usual the initiatory ceremony was started without an inspection of the grounds about the house.

The initiation had proceeded for about fifteen minutes when the girls were startled by a warning from outside the house that two girls had been discovered endeavoring to look in the windows. A half dozen of the high school fraternity girls, it is said, had seen them, but the girls fled, muffling their heads in their furs, avoiding recognition. The only identification was a cocker spaniel which they had with them. The boys then stood guard about the house and the ceremony was continued.

DOG WHINES.

The initiation over, the girls left for the home of one of their sisters for the spread. Two of them were delayed, and coming to the house about ten minutes later, found four girls and two boys with a cocker spaniel looking in at the windows. A warning was given, but by the time the girls had gotten out of the house the boys could be seen running in one direction and two of the girls in another. The two were chased, but suddenly disappeared in some shrubbery and could not be found.

The indignant sorority girls returning to the house heard a dog whining in the back of the house and following the scent found the two girls in furs who had been in the game from the very beginning.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Avila are planning to leave on Friday of next week for Fresno where they will remain over the week-end as the guests of Mrs. Avila's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Patterson, who will celebrate the fifteenth wedding anniversary.

The girls were crouched under the back stairs. When discovered they reluctantly came out and a long discussion followed, the content of which will probably never be known.

POSTOFFICE HANDLING THOUSANDS FOR STUDENTS

Church Paper Predicts Great City
Including Hayward and Richmond

BERKELEY, Nov. 9.—Apropos of the agitation for consolidation with Oakland now going on in various parts of Berkeley, the St. Record, the monthly magazine issued by St. Joseph's Church, the largest Catholic parish in Berkeley, has this editorial in its issue today:

"And it is now the city and county of Berkeley! Well, some people can't be good, anyhow. What's the use of making oneself ridiculous? There is no city and county of Berkeley, and, what is more, there is no great likelihood that there shall be one. With West Berkeley seeking admission to Oakland, and North Berkeley erecting itself into a county, and the rest of the town not knowing whether to go up to Jericho or down to Gath, we are in some need of some estate leaders to point out the right course to pursue."

WHAT THEY DESERVE.

"As for the class of government given by one municipality of another, we may put it down that the people generally get the class of government they deserve."

"Again, we might as well realize, once and for all, that you cannot get away from geography. The east side of the bay is destined to be one great city. It will extend from Hayward to Richmond, and it will constitute one municipality, no matter how many men of parochial ideas may try to get in the way."

WATERFRONT SHOWS
PHENOMENAL GAINS

Factories Extend to County Line

BERKELEY, Nov. 9.—The past eighteen months has witnessed a phenomenal increase in the number of manufacturing industries located in West Berkeley. The entire water front from the Oakland line to the Contra Costa boundary is now lined with factories, some of them among the biggest industrial enterprises in the State. The records of the West Berkeley branch postoffice show an increase in business over a year ago of over 350 per cent and scarcely a week passes without the announcement of some addition to the already large list of payrolls.

A census just completed by a representative of THE TRIBUNE shows a list of thirty-nine large factories along the water front with an average employe list of 174 people. On the basis that each employe represents five dependent people the figures show that over 8000 people are included in the industrial population of the west end.

Here are some of the principal factories with the list of employes as returned from records of the banks and payrolls: California Milling Company, 65; Manassas Block Tanning Company, 25; Block Glove Factory, 65; Jackson Machine Works, 50; Macaulay Foundry Company, 70; Hygienic Health Food Company, 7; Star Mattress Company, 15; Sunlit Fruit Company, 30; Carbonic-Dioxide Works, 13; Dorado Works, 20; Western Supply Company, 18; Ramona Candy Company, 55; Standard Soap Company, 70; Vigor Powder Company, 30; Pacific Spring Bed Company, 35; San Francisco Chemical Works, 75; Berkeley Chemical Works, 3; Stauffer Sulphur Company, 15; McLaughlin Manufacturing Company, 12; W. B. Anchor Works, 20; W. J. CASA GUIDI CIRCLE
HEARS LECTURE ON ART

BERKELEY, Nov. 9.—The Casa Guidi Circle of Berkeley had an attractive program November 8. The meeting was held in the parlors of the Flora Gamma fraternity house. Mrs. Louise M. Neily, in her reading from Longfellow, created exquisite pictures with a wealth of color, so that the characters of Michael Angelo and Vittorio Colonna stood out clear and distinct.

The feature of the afternoon was a lecture, "The Place of Tuscany in the World of Art," by Charles R. Madison.

The distinctive quality of the lecture was the broad treatment, evidencing a deep knowledge and thorough mastery of the subject. The discourse was delivered in a most pleasing manner and was illustrated by copies of the works of the most noted artists and sculptors of Tuscany and particularly of Florence.

PARENTS SEND MONEY ORDERS

Big Cash Reserve Is on Hand to Pay
All Comers.

BERKELEY, Nov. 9.—Because of the temporary difficulty in the money market with the banks closely husbanding their resources for emergencies, the money order business in the Berkeley postoffice has assumed enormous proportions. The 3000 students at the University are just now receiving their regular monthly allowances from home and the scarcity of gold and the difficulty in obtaining cash for drafts and checks in banks had diverted almost this entire business to the post-office.

During the past three days nearly $7,000 has been paid out by Postmaster Merrill on these orders and the indications are that the business is only beginning. In addition to the fact that a condition of affairs, Merrill obtained a large cash deposit on order of the post-office department from the sub-treasury and is now prepared for all comers.

GROWS POPULAR.

"The postoffice order business is enjoying a wonderful popularity just now," said Postmaster Merrill. "And we are paying out thousands of dollars where formerly we paid hundreds. Of course, we are paying gold and silver and that makes us very popular with the students and others who receive and make small remittances."

"Formerly the students, for the most part, received their remittances by check or draft. Just now they are getting them in the shape of money orders. The temporary shortage of currency and coin among the banks has of course brought this state of affairs about. As soon as the banks recover their coin supplies we will probably feel a big falling off in our money order business."

"The government has just received the money order reserve in all cities and towns where there are money order post-offices, and Berkeley is patronizing the accommodation to the limit."

CARRY COIN TO BIG GAME.

Outside of this feature the business situation in Berkeley remains practically unchanged. The legions of thousands of football enthusiasts to Palo Alto this morning to see the intercollegiate game means that thousands of dollars in cash were carried out of Berkeley. The result was visible in the shortage of small change and fractional coin all over the town. Cleaning House certificates were used to satisfy all payrolls and during the afternoon there was so much of this brand of money in circulation that the business men had great difficulty at times in making change. The fact that the banks closed at noon for the Saturday half holiday added to the inconvenience. In some cases business men ran out of change entirely.

Outside of this feature the business situation in Berkeley remains practically unchanged. The legions of thousands of football enthusiasts to Palo Alto this morning to see the intercollegiate game means that thousands of dollars in cash were carried out of Berkeley. The result was visible in the shortage of small change and fractional coin all over the town. Cleaning House certificates were used to satisfy all payrolls and during the afternoon there was so much of this brand of money in circulation that the business men had great difficulty at times in making change. The fact that the banks closed at noon for the Saturday half holiday added to the inconvenience. In some cases business men ran out of change entirely.

NO STOP TO IMPROVEMENTS IN THE COUNTY

MRS. HILLING'S HOME.

MAYOR MAKING PROGRESS IN SECURING PARK LANDS

Effort to Make Oakland 'The City Beautiful' Is Progressing Along Conservative Lines.

With as rapid progress as possible under the circumstances that confront them, Mayor Mott and the other members of the Board of Public Works are acquiring the sites for public parks and playgrounds, which were recently voted by the electors of Oakland at a bond election. It will take many months before all the sites are purchased and made ready for improvement, but Mayor Mott declares that he is working hard to accomplish the plan and that this city will within a comparatively short time be the possessor of parks and playgrounds which will be the envy of almost every municipality in the country.

SITES REQUIRED.

Already several sites have been acquired and deals for others are about to be completed. Property along Oak street has been purchased and this is one of the most ideal spots in the city. The Crabor property, bordering the Boulevard, which is another excellent site for a public pleasure ground, is now the property of the city, the deal having been closed last week.

The De Fremery property, the Mayor says, will next be acquired, the arrangements for the purchase being almost completed.

There are many other sites to be procured, but some time will be necessary for the closing of the transactions. The property has to be bought from individuals, prices settled upon and the title searched and cleared.

GETTING PROPERTY.

When interviewed, Mayor Mott was considering several site propositions, and he declared that he had been working

DELGER MAY ERECT BLOCK

Has Under Advisement Plan for New Block at Fourteenth and Broadway.

In all probability the Delger block, on the southwest corner of Broadway and Fourteenth street, will be the scene of a great improvement as soon as the ground floor is vacated by Taft & Penoyer, the present lessees, in order to move into their new building on Clay, Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets, which is now in course of construction.

In a recent casual meeting between Mr. Delger and a TRIBUNE representative, the question was put by the latter tentatively: "Well, Mr. Delger, I suppose as soon as Taft & Penoyer move into their new quarters you will put up a ten-story class building on the Delger block," to which he answered: "I have not yet fully made up my mind what to do. I have had so many applications made to me for business premises that I am as yet undecided. I am sizing up the situation and by spring I shall reach some definite conclusion and be ready to do something."

The Delger block is the only one of the four corners at the intersection of Broadway, San Pablo avenue and Fourteenth street which is not occupied by a modern structure, the other three corners carrying respectively, the Merchants block, Central bank building and the First National Bank block of reinforced concrete with exterior facing of dressed stone, which is now approaching completion.

WORKING ON BIG BUILDING

Contractors for Taft and Penoyer Are Making Progress on Work.

The excavation for the Taft & Penoyer building, on Clay, Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets, has been finished and the steel girders and columns are being delivered on the premises.

Meantime artesian well borers are sinking a well on the northwest corner of the excavation. The bore is now down over two hundred feet. For over one hundred feet the drills have been passing through a stiff bed of blue clay. When the boring tools get through this bed of clay it is expected that a water-bearing stratum of sand or gravel will be encountered. In the next block, fronting on the west side of Clay street, between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, a well about 225 feet deep which is yielding a large supply of water, and the same water-bearing stratum is expected to be placed in the Taft & Penoyer well.

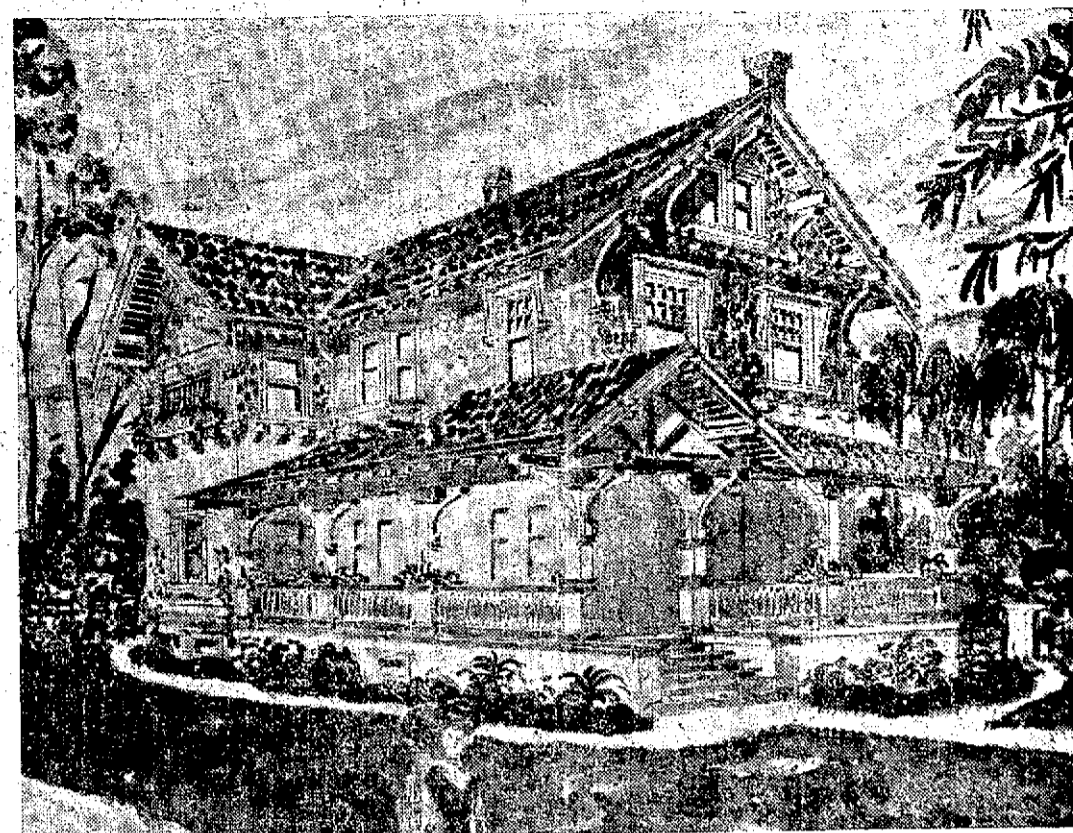

REVISING OLD VIEWS.

Now that the preparatory work of the big building is so far advanced, people who were formerly pessimistic about the location as a promising one for business, regarding it as too remote from Broadway, are revising their views very materially. The rapid extension of the business quarters in all directions, particularly along San Pablo avenue and the lateral streets extending westward from Broadway and the avenue, apparently shorten the distance from the central thoroughfare and show that it is not only in touch but will be, when the big building is finished, in the very center of business life and activity. The city's business growth and the increase in its population is so great that people are now wondering why they ever entertained the belief that either Clay or Jefferson streets should be regarded as too remote for business purposes. One is only 300 feet and the other is less than 700 feet from Washington street, which is next to the busiest street in the city and incapable of accommodating all the business that is seeking to locate in this city.

FUTURE BUSINESS BOUNDARIES.

The approaching completion of the W. F. Fuller & Co. building, at the southwest corner of Tenth and Allee streets, is also developing entirely new ideas regarding the value of business locations in that direction. In a year or so the boundaries of the wholesale and retail districts will undoubtedly be bounded on the north by Fourteenth and Twenty-second streets, on the west by Jefferson or Castro, on the east by Oak and on the south by the water front.

The whole of the latter promises to be leased to tenants, for terms not less than three years before it will be ready for occupancy, and there is not the slightest doubt in the minds of anyone but what a ten-story building on the Delger corner, which is in many respects a desirable location, if erected, will secure tenants long before it is finished and ready for use.

JUDGE GEORGE SAMUELS' HOME.

WORK ON THE NEW HOTEL

Excavation for Foundation Will be Completed in a Few Days.

Excavation work on the site of the Bankers' Hotel is still in progress, and according to Warren D. English, secretary of the company while his building the structure, it will be several weeks before everything will be in readiness for the foundations. After the excavation work is completed, the directors will receive bids for the construction of the foundation work.

"We are rushing work on the excavation," declared Mr. English, "but of course it is a rather tedious job, as in some places the excavation is twenty feet in depth. We have not as yet considered the letting of contracts for the construction of the foundation, but that matter will be taken up as soon as everything is in readiness."

"The present financial flurry has impeded our progress a little, but we expect to be under way again in a short time and it will not be very long before Oakland's two million dollar caravansary will be ready to receive the many tourists who flock to our city, looking for accommodations in a first-class hotel."

ACQUISITION OF PARKS GREAT THING FOR CITY

As a Result of the Purchase of Adams Point Property Values in District Have Gone Up.

The acquisition by the city of the wooded part of the so-called Adams Point property, including the actual projection of the point into Lake Merritt, the possession of which for park purposes has been coveted so long by those citizens who earnestly desired and who have as earnestly worked to that end, is a great step in advance in the consummation of the plan for the beautification of the city in that quarter where nature seems to have provided that art should do its perfect work and least interfere with the demands of commerce. Regarding the latter, commerce can never invade the territory covered by the lake or lying north of the line of Eighth street, between Fallon street and the eastern shore of the north arm of the estuary, for the reason that the deeds of gift through which the tide lands were covered by the lake and the marsh and tide lands donated in the south side park site below Twelfth street and such marsh and tide lands south of Twelfth, north Eighth and east of Fallon street, have since been acquired by purchase, were dedicated in each form of acquisition to park purposes.

ADVANCING LAND VALUES.

But as a factor for the present ornamentation and advancement of values of a large area in the heart of the city peculiarly adapted for utilization, and improvement in the highest degree for residential uses, the acquisition of these park lands and the chain of minor parks around the shores of the lake, the importance of the work the municipal administration has now in hand cannot be overestimated.

HOW LAND VALUES HAVE ADVANCED.

Since the parking of this section has been in progress and values for a vast area tributary to Lake Merritt have advanced from 50 to 100 per cent, and they are still on the increase, it is not surprising that the highest type of street and sanitary improvements, whose influence is being exerted toward a vast increase in land values. The movement has been started and it has obtained such a headway that nothing can stop it in the future.

WHOLE CITY BENEFITED.

The whole city is benefited by what the administration is doing in this quarter, for the legitimate increase in land values which the improvements that are being made are producing are adding to the revenues of the city from taxation. In the course of a comparatively short period the money invested by the municipality for the development of these parks will be returned to aid treasury and thereafter will be a perpetual source of profit.

EFFECT OF OTHER PARKS.

The acquisition of the park lands included in other parts of the city in the bonded scheme of municipal adornment, in a few years hence Oakland promises to be not only one of the greatest commercial and industrial cities on the Pacific coast, but one of the most beautiful also on the continent.

FINE WEATHER: PHYSICIAN TO MANY SALES

Building Operations Are Going Right Ahead in the County.

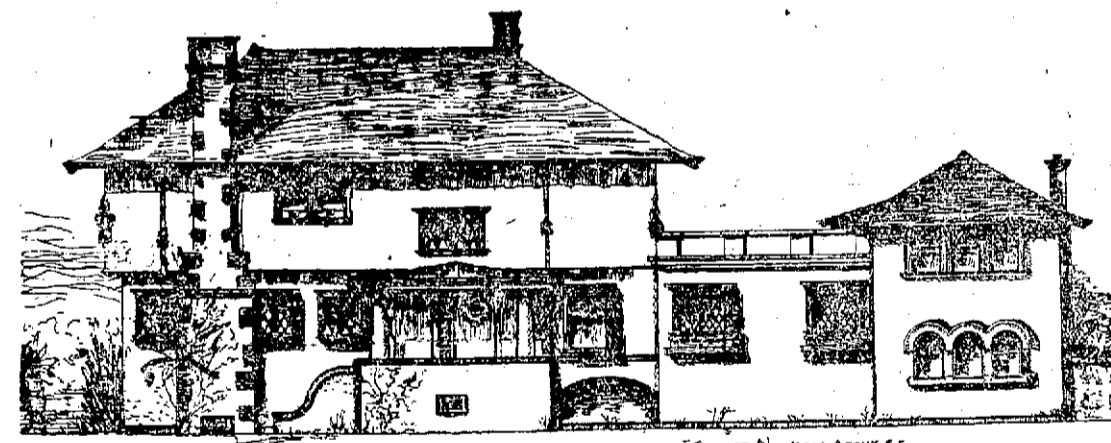

The fine weather which has followed the October rains is favoring building operations, which are being pushed forward in all parts of the city with renewed activity.

It is having the same effect in the suburbs and the near-by towns where the demand for new buildings to house the continued influx of population is as steadily increasing as it is in Oakland. Berkeley and Alameda are adding to their mutual prosperity. Through the year, the weather has been highly favorable to the farmers of Alameda county as it has been to the majority of the farmers throughout the state. The harvesting of big crops, marketed at good prices, has given them a fine margin of profit. Much of this is being judiciously invested in Oakland property and the new season has opened so auspiciously that they are looking with the greatest confidence into the future.

An immense amount of interest is being taken by prospective buyers of residence sites in the new tracts that have been opened in the previously unoccupied territory within the city and in the immediate outskirts and the fine weather favors their inspection. Each week scores of home-seekers are to be seen roaming over the rolling land where these recently subdivided tracts have been laid out, and most of the trading done in the real estate offices at present is in this class of property, and the brokers are giving most of their attention to its cultivation waiting for the time when inside property owners will be ready to sell and repelling the value of their possessions and the certainty on or before the opening of spring there will be a marked advance in values all along the line on inside realty. This is particularly the case regarding realty within the city and new business quarters. Buyers are no longer sought for a foot of this class of property and there are naturally no sellers, which is in marked contrast with the condition of the market a few months ago.

CONFIDENCE OF PROPERTY OWNERS.

This class has for many weeks past been basking in light to what it possesses, refusing all kinds of inducements offered to them to sell and repelling the blandishments of the most skillful brokers to name a price or give an option. While this may tend to reduce a very little the number of sales that are being closed weekly, it shows conclusively how confident property owners are regarding the value of their possessions and the certainty on or before the opening of spring there will be a marked advance in values all along the line on inside realty. This is particularly the case regarding realty within the city and new business quarters. Buyers are no longer sought for a foot of this class of property and there are naturally no sellers, which is in marked contrast with the condition of the market a few months ago.

MONEY CAN BE FOUND TO ERECT BUILDINGS

BERKELEY IS STILL GROWING

Many Important Buildings Being Erected in the College Town.

BERKELEY, Nov. 2.—Berkeley continues to grow. A large amount of building continues to go on, and the contractors report that they have all the work they can do. Most of the money that is being used is savings of the people, and not borrowed money. That part of the city south of Ashby avenue seems to be growing faster than any other. Soon it will be impossible to distinguish at all where Berkeley begins and where Oakland ends. No part of the city is standing still; tracts that were grain fields a year ago are now covered with homes.

The steel for the new High School has arrived and now the building will be rushed to completion as fast as possible. It is hoped to have it ready for the opening of school next June.

The Trustees have called for bids for the construction of the new City Hall which will be located on Grove street and Alston way. It will be constructed of reinforced concrete and will be a model building of its kind.

It was learned today on good authority that an Oakland capitalist has decided to erect a large hotel on Telegraph avenue, somewhere between Dwight way and the University grounds. For various reasons he does not want his name divulged nor the exact location given at this time. The plans are in the hands of the architect and they call for a five-story building of modern construction.

The real estate firms have no complaint to make in regard to their business, although no large sales have been made. The demand for houses to rent continues unabated, and inquiries for small homes to buy have not fallen off in the least.

The Mason-McDuffie Company has sold most of the lots in the Dwight Way Terrace tract. As a rule the purchasers were people from the interior of the State and people from other States, who have come to the conclusion that this city is the place to invest their money, because a continued growth is assured, therefore property values must increase in proportion to the increase of population. A number of sales have been made in Northbrae to the same class of people. Most of these purchasers intend to build their own homes in a short time.

It is expected that work will be com-

BUILDING IS IN PROGRESS

Money Can Be Secured to Make Substantial Improvements in This City.

In the past week a large number of plans and specifications for large flats and apartment houses, as well as fine homes, have been filed with the Board of Public Works, and permits have been granted for their construction. Despite the financial flurry, work is to be commenced upon the structures immediately.

George Flammer is to have a three-story building, constructed on the flat plan, and containing eighteen rooms, built on the south side of Sycamore street, near San Pablo avenue, at a cost of $5000.

Careghino & Benedetto have let a contract for the erection of a two-story building at the northwest corner of Forty-seventh street and Telegraph avenue, at a cost of $1000. The structure will contain two stories on the ground floor and flats, containing twelve rooms, on the second floor.

C. A. Chichester is to build a two-story flat building, containing eleven rooms, on Spring street, near Piedmont avenue, at a cost of $4000.

M. C. Campbell has let a contract for the erection of a two-story flat building, containing twenty-two rooms, on Duncan street, south of Woodside street. The structure will cost $3000.

Work on the construction of the Dwight way line of the Oakland Traction Company is in the near future. This will open up to settlement a large area that lacked transportation facilities.

Berkeleyans are very much interested in the erection of the new eight-story building which is being put up by the Berkeley National Bank of this city. When completed it will be by far the handsomest and most expensive structure in Berkeley and will furnish commodious rooms for a number of business firms and professional men in addition to being a home for the bank. Already the foundations have been laid deep into the ground and the underground safety deposit vaults are now in process of construction. They will be handsome buildings are in process of constructing the most secure about the city. The vault will be constructed of concrete reinforced with heavy railroad iron, making it practically burglar proof. Other structures in different portions of the city.

M. J. Olmstead Completes Apartment House for Mrs. Adeline Case.

M. J. Olmstead has just completed a large apartment house at Twenty-sixth and Linden streets for Mrs. Adeline Case. The building is a great addition to the locality. The work done by the contractor was perfectly satisfactory to the owner. Olmstead was not only the contractor, but also the designer.

The building contains fifty-four rooms with baths, and the house is divided up into four or five room flats with all modern conveniences. The cost of the building was $16,000.

Senator Perkins and Congressman Knowland Will Meet Constituents Monday.

For the purpose of allowing representative citizens of this State to meet with their representatives in Congress and the Senate, a meeting has been called for next Monday morning at 10 o'clock in the assembly room of the California Promotion Committee in San Francisco. Many members of the Chamber of Commerce and of the Merchants' Exchange of this city are expected to be present at this meeting. The Congressman Joseph K. Knowland and Senator George C. Perkins will be in attendance as will Congressmen McLachlan, Englebright, Smith, Hayes and McKinley.

It is the desire of those who have called the meeting to have people present who can tell of the wants of the different sections of the State, so that the legislators will be able to take action upon the suggestions at Washington.

We are looking for a wonderful improvement there in the next few months.

OUTLOOK GOOD.
O. E. Holt of The Realty Bonds & Finance Company, Incorporated, reports an active week at Richmond, in spite of the San Francisco election and the flurry in local finances. They have several new clients with large sums securing investments in Oakland. The outlook is good.

CONFIDENCE IN SITUATION.
M. T. Minney, president of the M. T. Minney Company, in speaking of the present conditions, said: "In order to show our confidence in the outcome of the present financial situation, we are offering to accept checks on any of the banks of Oakland or San Francisco, including the California Safe Deposit and Trust Company. In payment for any of the many properties which we are selling."

"The situation, however, seems to have turned out our business in general. This is especially true of our suburban property. The low price and small monthly payments on which we are selling lots in our various tracts are attracting hundreds of buyers, and for the past few weeks our sales have increased continually, and from present indications this week will be the best week we have had since we began the sale of suburban property some months ago."

The following are among those who bought lots of us during the past week: L. A. Bishop, K. P. Smith, A. Maynard, J. A. Anthony, Martin Dunstan, Mrs. H. Varcoe, E. T. Rademacher, W. E. Balas, J. W. Sharp, J. Fortense, F. E. Olsen, C. J. Tully, M. V. Hines, Emma Koppen, Richard Koppen, T. K. Adams, Mrs. Frisbie.

REAL ESTATE IN DEMAND

Many Buyers Seek Moderate Priced Properties in Business and Residence Sections.

The Hayden-Bright Company, real estate, formerly at 1357 Broadway, now occupy offices at 1232 Broadway. The members of the firm do a general insurance business, representing only good companies, and negotiate loans at the customary rates on real estate. Continually tending to the front they have, at considerable expense, secured a lease on their new location and are greatly pleased with it, being now within one block of the busy financial center at the corner of Broadway and Fourth streets.

They feel very optimistic over the business situation in Alameda county, and are laying plans for the handling of a large business, both city and suburban.

"We are at present negotiating a sale of acreage property of large proportions, details of which can not be announced at present. They report buyers numerous, and willing to buy when shown good values, also good inquiry for stores and the call for houses, flats and apartments, cannot be supplied by their renting department."

TO ERECT STORE.

They have contracted to erect a store and flat on Twentieth street for a tenant, who will lease a lease of from two to five years at a good rental. To show the tone of the market one small ad inserted in the Sunday TRIBUNE of November 3, produced not less than fifteen inquiries, and the sale of the property.

They report among others the following recent sales: $4,200 cottage on Pine street, Berkeley, O'Brien to Meales; $3100 house on Spring street, Thompson to Sautley; $2500 cottage on Eleventh avenue, Bartlett to Simpson; $1000 lot on Montecito avenue, from a client of the office to Olsen; also the following in Fruitvale Heights, corner Redwood avenue and Wisconsin, to G. F. Klink, at $575; lot 4, block 9, to Van Maarseveen at $525; lot 19, block 3, to Cregget, at $175; corner Medical avenue and Arizona, to Wilson, at $600; lot 6, block 11, to Davis, at $700; lot 10, block 11, to Bergman, at $675; lot 6, block 3, to Olsen, at $535; lots 6 and 7, block 10, and lot 4, block 9, to L. Berg, at $1475; for all, lot 6, block 5, to Kabb, at $526.

DEMAND STEADY.

Wickham-Havens, of the firm of Wickham-Havens, Incorporated, in speaking of the real estate situation during the past week, said: "The steady, quiet demand for medium-priced residential property is one of the most encouraging features of the present market. This feature alone indicates to the close observer that there is much prosperity in the class which constitutes the greatest strength of this country. The higher priced properties have been selling rather slowly for the past week, but lots ranging from $800 to $1500 have been in great demand. This is particularly marked in our Fourth Avenue Terrace Tract. It is one of the best and most consistent sellers that we have ever put on the market. There are many plans and preparations for residences in this district and

PLANS FOR NEW HOMES

Architects Are Busy Preparing for Buildings for New Improvements.

A $6000 flat is in course of construction on Twenty-fourth street, east of Valdez, an illustration of which is produced in this department today. Plastering has just commenced on these flats, whose foundations were laid less than twenty working days ago. Pretty quick work even for these lively times. The design shown is in the colonial. The exterior of the building is covered with cedar shingles and ornamental plaster work, which, together with the wall-filled flower boxes, will make a most artistic front. The interior arrangement has been worked out and polished up to the limit of comfort and convenience. The lower flat has two rooms and bath and the upper six. Each room receives its full share of sunlight. Each flat has its own reception hall, well lit and roomy. All the plastering in the house is the hard fiber wood plastering. Large clinker brick fireplaces, for burning wood or coal are a feature of the plans. The living rooms and halls are paneled with rough plastering between. The dining rooms are wainscoted with wood to the height of the doors and finished with plate rails and beams. The kitchens and bath rooms are wainscoted with the heavy figured Sanitas that is being used so extensively. The kitchen porches are furnished with wash trays, coal and wood bins, meat safes and separate toilets. These porches are fully equipped. Special attention has been directed to the decorating of the floors and walls, and they are practically soundproof. The owner of the building, Sidney B. Newsom, member of the firm of Newsom & Newsom of San Francisco, who are the architects of the building, expects to have the work completed by Dec. 15, and is preparing plans for another flat for himself on Valdez street, just around the corner.

Architect H. A. Kempf has completed plans for a two-story residence for Judge George Samuels on Monte avenue and Moraga road, Piedmont. The plans, which have been prepared by H. A. Kempf, show an elaborate arrangement of rooms. The new home will be one of the attractive places at Piedmont.

Architect H. A. Kempf has prepared plans for a pretty cottage for Mrs. S. B. Milling, at Crosby place, Fifth and Fairmont avenues. The plans show an interesting home.

ST. MARK'S HOTEL.

Interior work on the new St. Mark's Hotel at Twelfth and Franklin streets is progressing rapidly and according to Frederick Dodd, the manager, Christmas dinner will be served in the new hotel. The decorating of the walls in the interior is about completed and work on the main floor is well under way. The main floor, as well as all the rooms in the building, are to be highly decorated, no expense being spared to make the hotel one of the prettiest in the West.

ALAMEDA MEN PROSPEROUS

Forty-six Houses Were Completed During Month of October.

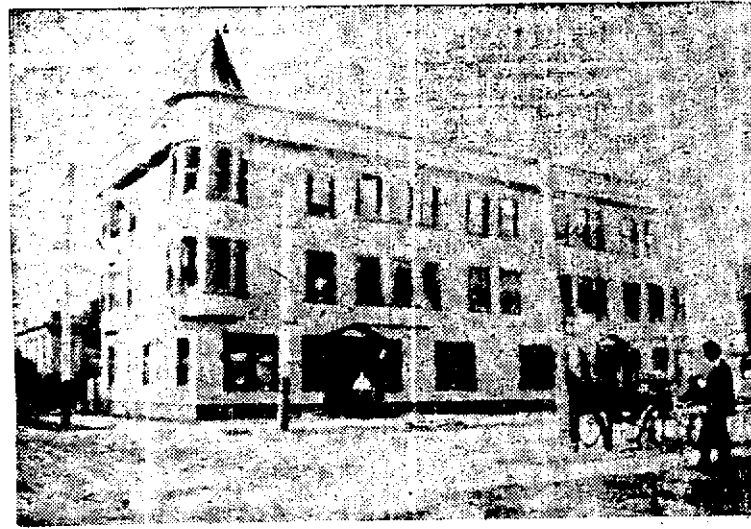

ALAMEDA, Nov. 2.—Despite financial troubles and the somewhat high price of building materials, there has been no cessation of construction in this city, and during October forty-six houses of all descriptions were completed and passed on by the sanitary inspector.

The completed houses represent an outlay of $170,000 for building materials and labor and $52,000 for the purchase of the land on which they were erected. There are now seventy-two houses under construction and forty of them will be completed this month. Twenty-two houses will be started this month. The city officials consider the above to be an excellent record considering the time of year. The coming of winter seems to have had little effect on the contractors, for they are going ahead with the work. The coming of the rains, however, will put a temporary stop to building.

The real estate dealers have all had a good week, considering the condition of the money market. Several good sales have been made, but there has been a heavy demand for houses for renting. During the winter months the dealers expect to take much time to devote to the Fifty Thousand Club, as they believe that the results next year will justify them in some energetic work at present. The club is now advertising the city in the Eastern States and there has been a number of letters asking for information. There are several suitable factory sites on the estuary shore and the club plans to bring manufacturers here. The Powell Brothers have erected a large warehouse on Harrison avenue. Councilman Fritz Boehmer is improving his Park street business houses, and there are many other improvements being made about the city.

MANY CHOICE BIRDS TO ENTER POULTRY SHOW

Arrangements for the fourth annual exhibition of the Alameda County Poultry Association, which will be held at Idora Park December 23 and 24, are progressing rapidly. The 30th, are progressing rapidly. The exhibition hall is being remodeled to accommodate the large entry assured and the various incubator and poultry appliance companies are getting locations wherein to display their wares. Secretary Hines says that in all his experience as a show secretary he never before witnessed such a desire for literature, etc. One notable entry already in is that of a Japanese Pitt game hen, which has been a prize winner for years. The secretary has established branch offices at the Cyprian Investor Company, 1539 Broadway, Oakland, and at the Fruitvale Poultry Supply Company, 3501 East Fourteenth street, Fruitvale, where premium lists and entry blanks may be obtained. Entries can also be left at these offices any time prior to Saturday evening, November 23rd.

NEW PEOPLE; NEW MONEY

Frank J. Woodward Says Things Are Looking Well for Oakland.

"Nothing that is within reason can stop the growth of Oakland," is the way Frank J. Woodward, of the F. J. Woodward Company, sums up his prediction of this city's future. "Oakland's growth is so healthy that a foundation for a metropolitan city has been established which is almost inviolable. From a review of this year's phenomenal growth, I can see nothing but a continuance of the same for many years, especially for next year. "People are flocking into the city from all directions and establishing their homes. Reports come from all over the country that housekeepers are flocking toward Oakland, where they are planning to settle. In frequent trips to different parts of the State I have heard many remarks that they are coming to Oakland to settle, so great has been the progress of the city on all lines.

"Prospective purchasers of property in this city are pleased with our schools, our churches, our municipal government, our streets, our amusement places, all of which tend to a happy existence. The city is keeping pace with the times, providing for clean streets, public parks and all other necessary adjuncts to a prosperous municipality.

"The growth of the city and the establishment of homes has not been confined to one locality, but homes and business enterprises are springing up in all sections. The homes that are being built are expensive ones and not of a cheap variety. I know of several large manufacturing industries that will come to this city and locate after the present financial stringency has abated.

"Of course for some time there has been a tendency upon the part of the banks to withhold loans on realty, but despite this fact many real estate transactions have been consummated. This shows that new people and new money are coming into this city.

"The merchants and residents of Oakland have faith in the city. The former have been transacting more business in the past year than ever before. Large buildings are under course of construction and more are projected. With such an optimistic feeling prevailing everywhere, I see nothing but a great future looming up on Oakland's horizon."

One of our most representative clock and suit stores is retiring from business. The store of A. Shafra, 425 Thirteenth street, will be no more after January 1. Our readers know the reliability of this firm, and the high class of merchandise they carry. They are forced to dispose of their entire stock at any price in the short time of six weeks. Prices will be slaughtered and this sensational sale will begin next Saturday, Nov. 16th. Watch this paper for further announcements during this week.

RAISE MORE GRAPES.

(Special Cable to the Tribune.)
PARIS, Nov. 9.—The culture of olive trees in all Mediterranean countries is greatly decreasing, and is being supplanted everywhere by the cultivation of the vine.

Since 1884 nearly a third of the area planted with olive trees has been turned to other uses, and the total value of olive trees grown in France, which in 1880 was $200,000,000, has decreased by nearly 75 per cent. Olive tree plantations, which twenty years ago were worth 10,000 francs, are not worth much more than a fifth of that amount today.

MARQUIS SACRIFICES WEALTH FOR POOR

SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE.
LONDON, Nov. 9.—Lord Carrington has set an example to his fellow Peers by granting small holdings on his estate to men who, he stipulates, shall marry "within a reasonable time." In this matter he has forestalled some of the radical socialists and he is regarded as a man of very sincere purpose.

But the Marquis of Northampton is even more radical. He is now anxious to let his magnificent house, Cliveden, which was built in Elizabeth's days and much improved in 1824, for a short lease, for the sole purpose of obtaining more money for improving the condition of the masses.

The Marquis is a man with a strong back-bone and swarthy skin and has always been "the people's friend." He is very blunt and outspoken, and usually says the wrong thing at the right time at public meetings, but he is worshipped by his tenants and is something of a socialist in the best sense of the term. His greatest hobby is motor-cars and at the coming of age of his son, Lord Compton, a year ago, the motor races were the feature of the week's festivities.

The money which the Marquis will receive from the lease of his house, provided he manages to let it, he will devote entirely to the better housing of the masses.

WILL WEAR RICH COSTUMES

Milliners Busy Preparing Costly
Raiment for Horse Show
Devotees.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—All the fashionable purveyors of beautiful and fine raiment are putting the finishing touches on the finery that will make the annual horsemanship a pageant of clothes as well.

There will be added interest in the event, which opens November 18, owing to the fact that three promising girls will exhibit their titled dances and suitors, for Miss Gladys Vanderbilt and Count Guelzo Senni, and Miss Schmitz and Duke de Chartres will occupy conspicuous boxes.

The big dressmakers, milliners and furriers are up to their ears in work for the dressing will be unusually smart this year, and while the day or morning dressing will be quiet and more severe than it has heretofore, owing to the fact that American women are aping their English sisters in that, while the brilliant and gaudy with light cloth and chiffon frocks, jewels and marvelous hats and furs.

Tailor-made frocks will be, unlike those from the Parisian shops, severely plain, and most of them will be characterized by long flowing lines. The French figure, petite and svelty, which looks so well in the long coat with shortened waist line, is tabooed by the American women, whose fine figures and longer lines are far more graceful in long-waisted effects, and so the tailored gowns—made in many lengths, from the so-called three-quarter to the coat which reaches nearly to the hem—will be made with the waist line in the usual place, and with the backs of the coats perfectly tight fitting.

The sleeves in the tailored gowns will be long and much smaller than heretofore, and the shoulder seam has been practically eliminated by the clever cutting of a garment on an adaptation of the kimono or mandarin sleeve without having its usual width. The Hemstead, Westchester and Meadowbrook women, known to society as the "Horse Set," who include the Whitneys, Keenes, Clarence Moores, Taylors, Kernochans, Belmonts, Iselins and Brokaws, will dress in the severest English paddock coats and checked suits, many of these checked clothes being cross-barred with red, green or blue.

A novel feature of the tailored suits is the satin, flowered linen and silk-brocaded vests, which are cut like the waistcoats worn by men in the double-breasted effect with two rows of buttons.

Mrs. John Jacob Astor will wear a gown of this description in silky-finished chiffon cloth made with coat three-quarter length, and with a skirt in full-pleated style with the plain effect about the hips obtained by stitched-down pleats.

Six inches from the hem there is a border made of black velvet, embroidered on cloth of silver in the Greek border design. The coat is trimmed in a smaller design of the Greek trimming, and the waistcoat is made of striped brocade in black silk moire, and trimmed with gunmetal buttons.

TOQUE WITH PLUMES.
With this beautiful frock Mrs. Astor will wear a toque made with the brim of the Greek trimming and a buckle of dull silver to one side, holding a sweeping bunch of gossamer plumes in big curls.

Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont will appear on the opening night in a wonderful gown of coral pink cloth, embroidered with brown coral silk in Oriental designs.

Mrs. Richard Irwin has a most beautiful mauve cloth frock, which, by the way, is one of the newest of the season. The fur garments will be unusually beautiful and so elaborate that only people of great wealth can afford them. A so-called "simple loose-fitting coat," made of Venetian lace, under which glints the cloth of silver, and the entire garment lined with ermine, can be had at one of the exclusive Fifth Avenue shops for $400.

Many of the fur wraps—for they can no longer be called coats—are made long and pointed in the back and suggest the old shawl-wrap of the Victorian period.

Mrs. Guggenheim, wife of the Colorado Senator, is having a number of marvelous frocks made for the show, and later to be worn in Washington during the season, and has included several Princess gowns among her wardrobe.

Mrs. Charles Steele has some smart paddock coats in blues and covert shades, which she will wear during the week, and Mrs. Arthur Burden, who before her marriage was Miss Cynthia Roche, daughter of Mrs. Batonyi, will create a sensation in a new hat and coral pink frock.

The hat is said to be the biggest yet seen in this city. The brim of this wonderful creation is of cream lace, while the crown is made in a sort of fan or shawl shape of sable. To one side is an enormous sweep of Osprey and Paradise plumes in coral pink embedded in a bunch of French coral pink roses.

Another novelty of the horse show will be the new shoes for women. Pumps are no longer good form and no woman who considers herself smart will be seen in them. The new shoe is an adaptation of the Louis Quinze slipper, with a short vamp and a tongue that flares up straight in front. The heel is higher than the Cuban heel and not so exaggerated as the regular French heel. Solid silver buckles, big and square, will be worn on the day shoes, while brilliant and Rhine stones will adorn those for evening wear.
